Commies Delay Honors

Interrupt Nobel Peace Prize Fete Today Honoring Gen. Geo. Marshall

OSLO, Norway (AP)—Communist demonstrators shouting "this is no peace candidate" today interrupted the formal ceremonies awarding the 1953 Nobel peace prize to Gen. George C. Marshall.

A stunned audience at the Oslo University festival watched as the demonstrators showered anti-Marshall leaflets upon them.

The audience had come to witness the presentation to Marshall in recognition of the 17-billion-dollar postwar European aid plan which bore his name.

A group of about 20 young Communists, who sneaked into the gallery despite a check at the entrance, shouted in unison: "This is not peace candidate. Marshall go home." The leaflets were headed with the words "We protest!"

Police quickly overpowered the demonstrators.

The interruption came as Gunnar Jahn, president of the Norwegian Nobel committee, started to read the official citation scroll. A gold medal and $33,840 in prize money were also awarded to Marshall.

French Ambassador Louis de Monicault was present to accept the 1952 peace prize on behalf of Dr. Albert Schweitzer, famed African jungle doctor, humanitarian, philosopher and musical authority.

When things quieted down, Jahn calmly continued his speech and handed the Nobel scroll and gold medal, both encased in gold-stamped green leather, to Marshall.

As Marshall accepted the prize, the audience rose and applauded loudly for several minutes. Face tense, and giving his words extra emphasis, Marshall briefly voiced his gratitude for the honor shown him saying:

"I accept this honor with profound gratitude, not so much for myself as particularly on behalf of the American people who made it possible to realize the European Recovery Program."

The other four 1953 prizes from the fortune left by Alfred Nobel, inventor of dynamite, were to be presented later today in similar ceremonies in Stockholm, Sweden. They go to Britain's Prime Minister, Sir Winston Churchill, for literature; Dr. Franz Albert Lipmann of Harvard University and Dr. Hans Adolph Krebs of England's Sheffield University, both German-born, for medicine; Holland's Dr. Frits Zernike, for physics; and West Germany's Dr. Herman Staudinger, for chemistry.

Churchill's wife will accept the prize for her husband, who leaves Bermuda tonight after the Big Three conference.

Marshall, who will be 73 Dec. 31, was the 12th American to win the peace prize, first given in 1901.

Norway's 81-year-old King Haakon VII headed the glittering audience which packed Oslo University's Festival Hall to applaud as the soldier-statesman mounted the rostrum.

The presentation was made by Gunnar Jahn, president of the Nobel committee named by the Norwegian Parliament to make the award.

Just before, Carl Joachim Hambro, who often has represented Norway in the League of Nations and the United Nations, explained the prize was "not given to Marshall for all he accomplished during the war."

"What he has done after the war to prepare for peace is the corollary of this achievement, and it is this great work for the establishment of peace the Nobel committee has wanted to honor," Hambro declared.

Hambro recalled Marshall's fight for European recovery, from his first proposal of the aid plan in an address at Harvard University June 5, 1947, until Congress' adoption of the program.

Time, he continued, has proved "the constructive character of the plan." He added:

"And the organs which have grown from Marshall aid, more than anything else in these difficult years, have been a contribution to what Nobel termed the 'idea of general peace in Europe' and the realistic materialization of the idea Nobel in his testament called brotherhood among nations."

Tonight the prize committee was to honor the American general at its traditional dinner and tomorrow he will deliver the Nobel lecture on a subject of his own choice.

Winter's Over?

Winter is over, at least the weatherman gives that indication. After the snappy days the past week, he says it is going to stay warmer for a spell. Now look at the calendar—a week from Monday is the first day of winter.

Fair and warmer tonight. Friday increasing cloudiness, mild and windy. Low tonight near 35. High Friday in the upper 50s.

The temperature at 7 a. m. was 25; 52 at 1 p. m., and 53 at 2 p. m.

One year ago today here high 45, low 28. Two years ago high 42, low 20.

Stage at Lake of the Ozarks: 45.6, steady.

No Progress Today Toward Setting Up Korea Peace Talks

U. S. Envoy Dean Asks Communists If They Are Ready to Break Off Preliminaries

PANMUNJOM (AP) — Allied and Communist diplomats made no progress today toward setting up a Korean peace conference and U. S. envoy Arthur H. Dean asked the Reds if they were ready to break off the preliminary talks.

The Reds retorted with a long tirade, then acknowledged that the negotiations are at a standstill and said they would answer Dean tomorrow.

A few miles from the scene of the deadlocked talks, Allied explainers failed for the eighth straight day to win back a single South Korean war prisoner who chose to stay with the Communists.

Indian paratrooper guards broke up sitdown strikes staged by most of the 30 ROK captives in an apparent effort to tie up the interviews.

Explainers have talked with 250 South Koreans to date and have 78 more to see.

Then the U. N. Command is expected to call for 22 Americans and 1 Briton who stayed with the Reds.

Dean told Communist diplomats he would do everything possible to carry out the Bermuda conference call for a Korean peace parley. But he said there would be no retreat from his insistence that Russia attend the conference as a full participant.

Communist demands that the Soviet Union be invited as a neutral observer have stalemated the preliminary talks.

The spokesman for 17 Allied nations which fought in Korea said Tuesday he would wait only a reasonable time for the Communists to come to terms. He set no time limit, but a high Allied source said the American delegation would leave Panmunjom by Dec. 20 to be home for Christmas.

North Korean delegate Ki Sok Bok accused the United States of attempting to dominate the United Nations and the nations represented by Dean.

Dean called Ki's statement "a rude and insolent tirade."

After a Communist attack on the voting procedures he outlined for the political conference, Dean told the Communists they "forget that our side is composed of free nations. It is not similar to the situation on your side where all nations are compelled to speak with the same voice—to echo the voice of the Communisty party line as dictated from the Kremlin."

Miner Kills 3 Of 5 Children, Hurts Other 2

He Uses Crowbar, Feet In the Attack, Then Hums a Hymn

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio (AP) — A jobless, hymn-singing miner killed three of his five little children yesterday with a crowbar and his feet and critically injured the other two.

"God told me to kill the children to save them from the tortures and torment of the devil," Frank Holt, 34, was quoted as telling Jefferson County Prosecutor Bernard T. McCann last night.

Holt was walking around his front yard, humming a hymn when Deputy Sheriff Russell Wilsac arrived at the home, 17 miles northwest of here in the village of East Springfield. The deputy said Holt kept humming hymns and seemed calm during a half-hour auto ride to jail.

Three of Holt's small sons were dead when Wilsac got there — Tracy, 1; Sidney, 2; and Sanford 6.

The other two children—Susan, 4, and Doren, 5—were unconscious at Ohio Valley Hospital today, their skulls fractured. Hospital attendants said they doubted the youngsters "would make it."

Wilsac said Holt had beaten the children's heads with a 30-inch crowbar and then stomped on them.

In another room of the hospital where two of her children were clinging to life was Holt's wife Beatrice, 32. She was recovering from the shock of returning to her home after a few minutes at a neighbor's and finding three of the children lying on the dining room floor and the other two in the kitchen.

Holt, dark-haired and of small, wiry build, told McCann he tricked his wife into leaving their house by telling her he wanted to go to a church service last night. The prosecutor said Holt told him he sent her to the home of a neighbor, Mrs. Sophie Baker, about 200 yards away, to ask the bakers for an automobile ride to church. She said she was gone only four minutes.

McCann said Holt told him he did not belong to any church and during questioning trailed off into discussions of God and the devil. McCann described him as "fantastically religious."

Asked if he intended to kill his wife too, Holt told McCann:

"No, God did not tell me to."

For two weeks to Monday of this week, he had been at the veterans hospital in Aspinwall, Pa., where authorities said he was treated "for investigation of a chronic heart disease."

Report Sedalia Sisters Missing Since Monday Eve

Two teen-age girls, one 13, the other 11, are reported to State Highway Patrol and Sedalia police as missing from the home of their mother, Mrs. Juanita Bramble, 204 North Mill, since Monday night. The mother told the officers she though the girls would return home, but when she failed to hear from them by Thursday morning the authorities were notified.

The girls are Helen Marie Bramble, 13, a student at Smith-Cotton High School, and Dorothy Ann, 11, a student at Jefferson School.

Helen Marie is described as being 5 feet, 4 inches tall, weighing 118 pounds, wearing a wine colored corduroy skirt, blue sweater and yellow coat. Her sister is 5 feet tall, weighs about 100 pounds and was wearing blue jeans and a blue sweater.

According to the officers, the older girl had some trouble with her older brother and, when reprimanded by the mother, put on her coat and left with her little sister following her. That was about 6:30 p.m. Monday and no word has been heard from them, nor any information received.

Anyone who might know of their whereabouts is requested to notify either the State Patrol or the Sedalia police.

Treated for Rabies

WEST PLAINS, Mo. (AP) — Two West Plains children, Patricia Jane Carter, 6, and David Spears, one and one half years, are being treated for rabies after being bitten by cats.

Authorities say the disease is prevalent in animals in the rural areas, particularly to the north of here.

It Behooves Lax To Pay the Tax

Tax collection in both Sedalia and Pettis Sounty seems to be proceeding normally now despite a slow start, according to figures released by Paul Alpert, city collector, and Miss Hazel Palmer, county collector.

The taxes become delinquent as of the first of the year.

For the city, Alpert is charged with collecting $285,000 for this year, which is about $20,000 more than for last year. During October, he collected $42,000, some $10,000 less than was collected in the same period last year, but in November collections were about even for the two years.

For the county, Miss Palmer is charged this year with collecting $1,347,942, which includes $104,041 delinquent from last year. The total figure is $68,329 more than she was charged with collecting last year.

During October $9,303 was collected, compared with $31,904 for the same period in 1952. But in November, the difference was more than made up by a collection of $360,727, compared with $329,819 for the same month last year. During 1952, Miss Palmer collected a total of $1,193,425.20 in taxes.

The amount of tax to be collected is steadily inceasing, in keeping with the steady increase in the county's assessed valuation. The county valuations for the last three years have been: 1951—$46,620,071; 1952 — $48,320,702.12; and 1953—$49,820,852.

Truck Hits Tree, Two Men Die Instantly, Third Is Badly Hurt

ASHLAND (AP) — Two men were killed instantly and a third was critically injured in an early morning crash of their truck about two miles north of here on U. S. 63 today.

The state highway patrol listed the casualties as:

Tom Roberts, about 50, and Barney Morrow, 54, both of Route 2, Ashland, killed instantly.

Walter Jenkins, also of Ashland and believed to have been the driver, in critical condition at Boone County Hospital in Columbia.

Jenkins was unable to give investigating officers an account of what happened, the patrol reported, but it appeared a tire blew out and the dump truck crashed into a tree beside the curving highway.

Federal Surgery Proposed

Report to President Urges Cutting 70 Independent Agencies Down to 30 or Fewer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Major surgery on the federal government, to cut its 70 independent agencies down to 30 or fewer, was proposed to President Eisenhower in a privately financed report made public today.

The Temple University Survey of Government Reorganization was supplied to Eisenhower without publicity after his election in 1952. A few of its 126 recommendations were embodied in the 10 reorganization plans which Eisenhower proposed and Congress accepted this year.

The survey urges a drastic, long-ranged reorganization of the Labor Department which would start with an act of Congress rewriting the 1913 law which instructs the department to "foster" and "promote" the welfare of wage earners. The department must earn recognition, it was declared, as a servant of the public rather than as a champion of labor.

Once this is done, the report said, the Labor Department should take over most duties of the National Labor Relations Board and both now independent agencies.

The report also repeats with emphasis some of the "hot potato" recommendations of the first Hoover commission.

These include merger, in the Interior Department, of the Reclamation Service and the civil functions of the Army Corps of Engineers; transfer of land management from the Interior Department to the Agriculture Department, and a wholesale shakeup of the Veterans Administration.

The survey was made public by Robert L. Johnson, president of Temple University, Philadelphia, and for a while in the Eisenhower administration as head of the State Department's Voice of America and other overseas information outlets.

Johnson said the survey was intended as a "bridge" of research between the first Hoover commission and the new reorganization commission also headed by former President Herbert Hoover.

Recommendations included:

1. Shift the Coast Guard from the Treasury to the Commerce Department. The report said the service has nothing to do with revenue since prohibition ended.

2. Incorporate the Post Office as a federal business enterprise. Meet its deficit—about 768 million dollars last year—by separate appropriations for each deficit class of mail.

3. Transfer the Interior Department's Bureau of Land Management to the Agriculture Department and merge with the Forest Service.

4. Abolish the President's Council of Economic Advisers and replace it with one official heading an "Office of the Economic Advisor." Let a "fiscal advisory council" in the Treasury advise on economic policy.

5. Put the selective service agency in the Defense Department.

6. Create in the Interior Department a "water development service" embracing civil duties of the Army Engineers, the Bureau of Reclamation and flood control functions of the Agriculture Department.

7. Consider setting up one independent regulatory agency for transportation, to combine decisions affecting aviation, shipping and railroads.

8. Transfer the hospital and mecical functions of the Veterans Administration into a government wide "united medical service." Transfer VA hospital construction to the Interior Department.

9. Bundle VA's insurance programs into a government corporation within VA. Transfer VA's housing loan guarantee program to the Housing and Home Finance Agency, VA's farm loans to the Agriculture Department, and VA's business loans to the Commerce Department.

Stories Clash On Ransom Handling

Blonde States She Saw Police Escort Hall Without Money

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The federal government has evidence of possible perjury in the Greenlease ransom inquiry, U. S. Atty. Edward L. Scheufler of Kansas City said here today.

He said this is separate from statements made by Carl Austin Hall and that Hall's testimony about the ransom would not be needed.

Hall and Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady are scheduled to die Dec. 18 at the Missouri penitentiary for the kidnap-slaying of 6-year-old Bobby Greenlease.

A federal grand jury at Kansas City will open an inquiry into the missing $303,720 of ransom money next Monday. Hall said he had most of the $600,000 ransom when he was arrested here but when suitcases containing the money were opened at a district police station more than half was missing.

"I had never planned to use Hall in the ransom inquiry," Scheufler said. "It is unnecessary. I have independent testimony concerning the perjury angle, and I don't need Hall or any of his statements."

This, Scheufler said, will rule out the possibility of a stay of execution for Hall.

The time the suitcases were taken to the police station is a major point in the inquiry. Hall, in his confession, said the suitcases were left in his hotel room after his arrest.

St. Louis police said a mysterious blond woman, who was in a car near the hotel entrance, has told them she saw Hall and the arresting officers—Lt. Louis Shoulders and Patrolman Elmer Dolan—leave with Hall but without suitcases. She probably will testify next week.

Both Shoulders and Dolan have said they took the suitcases to the station with Hall.

Scheufler was here to talk with U. S. Atty. Harry Richards of St. Louis about the case.

Police said the blond woman, who was not named, was the one Hall mentioned seeing as he was led from the hotel.

Shoulders resigned from the force shortly after a police board inquiry into handling of the arrest began. That inquiry still is in progress.

VICKSBURG, Miss. (AP) —The death toll from Saturday's tornado stood at 34 today as more aid was promised for Vicksburg.

Jack Tohill Sr., became the 34th fatality when he died last night of heart attack and shock. A few hours earlier Miss Regine Jacobs died of injuries received when her home was destroyed by the twister.

Gouzenko Agrees To Secret Talks With US Senators

OTTAWA (AP) —Igor Gouzenko has agreed to a secret meeting with representatives of the United States internal security subcommittee, the Canadian Press reported today.

Gouzenko is the former code clerk in the Russian embassy here who turned himself over to Canadian authorities in 1945 with a mass of evidence which broke open a spy ring with ramifications in Canada, the United States and Britain. Since then he has been living under the protection of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

Canada approved Gouzenko's meeting with the U.S. Senate subcommittee headed by Sen. Jenner(R-Ind) with the provision the session be held under Canadian auspices and that this country have the power of veto over what information would be made public as a result of the questioning.

Gouzenko has been quoted in various interviews as saying he had valuable information for the U. S. investigators, and alternately that he had no new information to offer.

It was not known Thursday when the questioning will take place. It may be held in Ottawa, but this is not definite.

The question of Gouzenko's appearance before the U. S. investigators was for a time last month an issue between the U. S. and Canadian governments. Canada's foreign secretary, Lester B. Pearson, at first turned down a request from Washington for Gouzenko had no new information to offer.

Ex-Hughesville Man Killed In Truck Mishap

Robert L. Ream, St. Joseph, Dies After Truck Overturns

Robert L. Ream, 29, formerly of Hughesville neighborhood, now of St. Joseph, and a man with whom he was riding in a GMC tractor, were killed about 9:30 a. m. Wednesday in an accident on U. S. Highway 36, two miles west of Breckenridge. The driver of the tractor was identified as Donald Dean Miller, 31, route 2, St. Joseph.

The State Highway Patrol said the accident was a result of snow which made Highway 36 slick. According to the patrol report, Miller was "bob tailing" with the tractor, driving to another point without pulling a trailer, and was accompanied by Ream.

Miller, according to the report, apparently lost control of the tractor as it started skidding on the ice and it overturned several times, then crashed into a ditch. Ream was thrown out of the tractor and clear of it, while Miller was pinned under it in the ditch.

It was reported Ream was still alive when passing motorists reached him, but died before a doctor or an ambulance arrived at the scene. It was several minutes before it was learned the second man was in the machine, but it was reported Miller was killed instantly, having suffered a a severe head injury as the tractor rolled over on him.

The tractor, which belonged to the Byers Transportation Co., Kansas City, was demolished. It was said Miller was headed east on the highway when the accident occurred.

The bodies were taken to the Michael Funeral Home in Breckenridge. Wednesday night the body of Ream was brought to Sedalia to the Gillespie Funeral Home by members of the morturary staff in their funeral coach which was taken there for bringing it here. That of Miller was taken to St. Joseph.

Robert Landis Ream was born April 27, 1924 in Hughesville, the son of Thomas J. and Mary Ream, prominate farmers of Pettis County, who reside on route 1, Hughesville.

Surviving him are: his widow, Mrs. Betty Goode Ream; a son, Robert Jan, age three; daughter, Debra Jo, age 5; two brothers, James Ream of Kansas City, and Thomas J. Ream Jr., Sedalia; and a sister Mrs. Betty Finley of St. Louis.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Saturday at the Gillespie Funeral Home. Burial will be in Memorial Park Cemetery.

Two US Grand Juries Will Resume Hearings On Labor Rackets

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Two federal grand juries are scheduled to resume inquiries into alleged labor racketeering in the eastern district of Missouri here next week.

One of the juries has been in recess since last July after returning 17 indictments against AFL labor leaders on racketeering charges. It was ordered to return to work Dec. 17-18 by U.S. Attorney Harry Richards yesterday.

The other jury earlier had been scheduled to reconvene Monday.

Both grand juries are expected to consider additional labor indictments in their racket inquiries, Richards said.

Fearing Russian Trickery

Congress Faces Questions Over Ike's Proposal For Atomic Pool

WASHINGTON (AP)—Fear of possible Russian trickery threatened today to impede future congressional approval for President Eisenhower's proposal to pool atomic energy materials and know-how for peaceful purposes.

Although Eisenhower told the United Nations he had "every expectation of approval" by Congress of a plan to encourage worldwide, nonmilitary atomic developments, some lawmakers foresaw difficulties.

Many lawmakers, however, hailed the Eisenhower proposal as a bold stroke for peace, and as one which would test the Russians' intentions.

As for the Russians, they gave no indication they would accept the President's proposal of Tuesday.

Moscow radio accused Eisenhower of threatening atomic war. The Communist party paper Pravday carried an 800-word account of the speech with the single comment: "However the President ... did not express his attitude to the question of outlawing atomic weapons." Washington has repeatedly urged international atomic controls, but has been unable to get Moscow to agree to an inspection system acceptable here.

At the U. N., Chief Soviet Delegate Andrei Vishinsky said it would be impossible to insure the use of atomic energy for peace without strict international control of weapons.

In Congress, Sen. Potter (R-Mich) said he thinks the "danger spot" in the proposed international program lies in inability of this country to exact any guarantee that Soviet Russia will live up to any agreement it might make. He added in an interview:

"The President certainly has a good idea if it can be accomplished but I don't see how we are ever going to be certain that the Soviets will live up to any pledges they may make.

"For my own part, I don't believe they are ever going to deviate from their ultimate objective of world conquest. I don't believe it is likely they will ever give us any of the benefits of their research in exchange for any information we might give them."

Sen. Olin D. Johnson (D-SC) said:

"We are not going to dump our atomic secrets into the Russians' laps until we know what they are going to do with them. I can't understand why we should spend all of this money investigating Russian espionage and then would turn over our secrets to them."

Sen. Burke (D-Ohio) said he hopes the United States does not come up with "a bad bargain" as the result of Eisenhower's offer.

"If the Russians made an agreement and then broke it, we could very well be in hot water," he said.

Not a Flying Saucer; Balloon Lands In City

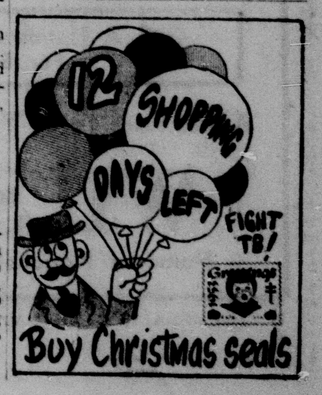

It wasn't a flying saucer, just a weather balloon released from the Sedalia Air Force Base, which took a nose dive over town and then rolled to a stop on a field behind 1400 East Boonville shortly before noon today.

The balloon was released this morning with weather instruments attached. It had trouble gaining altitude over Knob Noster and the instruments automatically cut loose in the parachute and dropped in town. The balloon, less the instruments weight, then went up into the air and headed east.

Robert Schulz, 635 East Ninth, line foreman for the Missouri Public Service Co., was with his crew in front of the Jefferson School on East Chestnut. He saw the balloon coming from the west as if it was shooting a line right along Chestnut. He said it appeared to be just over the center of town when it started a fast climb into the air and went nearly out of sight.

"It looked no larger than a baseball when it got to the highest altitude. Then it seemed to flap and started a fast descent. The balloon then looked to be 150 feet across and started back down eastward along Chestnut," Schulz said.

Schulz reported that when it looked as if it would come down, he took one of the company pickup trucks and followed it to where it landed.

UN Delegates Leaving With A Peace Hope

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Delegates headed home today from the eighth U. N. General Assembly hopeful that President Eisenhower's call for an atomic power pool might lead to peace, but apprehensively over the chilly blast it brought from Moscow.

As the Assembly recessed last night, many delegates admitted privately that the hopes Eisenhower's speech had inspired were considerably dashed by the Moscow Radio charge that the President's address "threatened atomic war" and proved that the Western Big Three "do not want to ease international tension."

Russia's Andrei Vishinsky also lowered the general morale last night when he indicated to the Assembly that Russia would reject Eisenhower's call for an atomic pool for peace.

Vishinsky declared that "without the adoption of a decision on the unconditional prohibition of atomic weapons, no strengthening of peace and international cooperation can be achieved."

Delegates tried to derive some comfort from the fact that the Moscow blast was not billed as official Kremlin reaction and that Vishinsky had not given a flat turn-down to the Eisenhower plan.

They admitted, however, that neither Vishinsky nor the Moscow Radio would be apt to comment on such a vital issue without getting the green light from the Soviet government.

Mrs. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, the Assembly president, disclosed that at the U. N. reception following his speech Tuesday, Eisenhower asked her what Vishinsky thought of the address. She obligingly walked over to the Russian and asked him.

Vishinsky reportedly replied that it was a better talk than he had expected, but "where is the ban?" This was a reference to Russia's perennial demands for an immediate prohibition of the atomic bomb.

At last night's closing session, Mrs. Pandit told the 60-nation assembly that Eisenhower's speech had affirmed "man's desperate need" for assurances of peace in the atomic era. She added that she hoped the chiefs of state of Russia, Britain and France also would have a chance to address the world forum.

Despite the cold wind from the East, most delegates looked for some development in the Eisenhower plan when the U. N.'s disarmament commission meets next month under U. S. chairmanship.

Diplomats predicted that the Americans would be ready to get down to cases with facts and figures when the commission convenes. They said Eisenhower's call for action on the atom was clear indication that he had plans to place before the commission, or at least to introduce to a pro- the United States, France, Britain, Russia and Canada.

Delegates also felt pretty certain they would be back in session early next year, probably early in February, to ponder the prisoner repatriation issue and other thorny problems growing out of the Koreal war.

In view of the present Korean stalemate, the Assembly decided to recess rather than adjourn. It is subject to recall by Mrs. Pandit —if the majority of the delegates feel Korean developments warrant such action.

British Honduras Is Mixture Of Discontent, Poverty, Hope

BELIZE, British Honduras (AP)—This is the British Empire's outpost in Central America. It is a mixture of poverty, discontent and ambition for better things.

The colony is the size of Massachusetts and has a population of 70,000, a third living in this steaming capital. The city's population is largely Negro, but outside Belize it is mostly Indian mixed with Spanish.

For 150 years the country lived on lumbering, but now the timber is giving out. Even the lumbering work is seasonal, covering about six months of the year. Wage scales in general are low and living conditions poor.

The economic and social structure is a capsule of trouble but the Jesuit priests from North America who make up most of the colony's clergy see little or no evidence of Communist influence.

A campaign for independence is being carried on by the People's United Party (PUP). This party is so noisy and demands so many reforms that some of the elements loyal to Britain accuse it of coming under Communist influence. But they find it difficult to back up the charge.

The PUP hopes to make itself felt next March in the colony's first general elections under a new constitution. Even if it wins as many seats in the Legislative Council as it expects, the real authority will remain under Gov. Patrick M. Renison, appointed by the Queen. No one expects a situation to arise here like that which brought suspension of the constitution in British Guiana, South America's outpost where the Communist line has been strong.

The political issues are largely represented by the self-government-now program of PUP, and the go-slow, stay-within-the-empire ideas of independents and a nationalist party.

The government is concentrating on building roads to open up more of the rolling back country for grazing and farming. The equivalent of a homestead law is in effect. Oil is being sought by the Gulf Oil Co. A citrus plant is shipping juice and fruit abroad.

The fertility of the soil results from the action of groups of bacteria which remain fairly constant in composition in most parts of the earth and from season to season.

Insurance Firm Says Policy for Bootlegger Would Be Too Risky

Oklahoma City (AP) — Whisky is just too risky, the Tristate Insurance Co. contended yesterday before District Judge Albert C. Hunt.

The company wanted the court to set aside a ruling instructing the firm to sell insurance to David L. Veatch, admitted bootlegger.

On his application for insurance Veatch stated he was a tavern owner and operated a retail liquor sales outfit—in bone dry Oklahome.

The governing committee of the Oklahoma Motor Vehicle Assigned Risk Plan had found Veatch eligible for insurance and instructed the commissioner to order the company to write a policy.

Appealing to the court, the company said the decision would force the writing of a policy "which is clearly unenforceable as completely repugnant to public policy."

War Babies Need Schools And Teachers

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Education Assn. said today the nation's public schools, their first grades jammed with the "war babies" of 1947, must have 150,000 more teachers and five billion dollars worth of new buildings.

The estimate was given in the association's annual look at school enrollments and teacher supply.

Public school enrollment in the 1953-54 school year is close to 29 million, an increase of nearly 1¼ million over last year, said the national professional organization of educators.

It added in a news release based on its survey:

"The standing room situation, which began plaguing the nation's schools in 1947, will become worse with the new year . . .

"The increase has come largely from young pupils who are entering already crowded classrooms for the first time."

NEA Research Director Frank W. Hubbard cited three reasons why he said school crowding would not be cured this year:

1. Colleges are not training teachers fast enough, although at a quicker rate.

2. Even with 38,000 more teachers on the job and spending of a half billion dollars more for education, about 632,000 youngsters must continue double-session or other makeshift arrangements.

3. An estimated 71,589 persons will be teaching this year without full certification, an increase of 2,000 "emergency teachers."

Hubbard said the problem of housing schoolchildren, while felt for a long time in grade schools, is now beginning to pinch the high schools.

Even with five billion dollars more for new buildings, as the association recommended, he said additional funds would be needed to fix up and replace old buildings, as well as to build for the future.

As to salaries, the association reported public school instructional staff members (teachers, principals and supervisors) average $3,725 a year. This salary, it adds, "will buy only as many groceries, pay as much rent and provide as much clothing as $1,934 did in 1935-39."

Mrs. Reed Gives Wildlife Area At Lee's Summit

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Western Missouri sportsmen can thank Mrs. James A. Reed of Kansas City for a new public recreation area near Lee's Summit.

Mrs. Reed, the widow of the late U.S. Sen. James A. Reed, and the State Conservation Commission announced establishment of the James A. Reed Memorial Wildlife area yesterday.

Two miles east of Lee's Summit and just south of U.S. highway 50, it is composed now of 1,660 acres of land. Mrs. Reed donated three farms, totaling 740 acres and worth an estimated $100,000, as a memorial to her husband. The state has acquired or is buying another 920 acres.

The state commission reported it hopes to add enough more land in the future to make the total area about 3,000 acres. The immediate plan is for ten lakes of from ten to 30 acres each with future projects to include addition of five more lakes ranging up to 30 acres in size.

Primarily the area will be designed for fishing but other outdoor sports will be included as they fit into the program:

Police Arrest Three For Sale of Fake Money-Making Machines

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Mexican police say they have arrested a Colombian and two Costa Ricans who have been trying to boom counterfeiting as a home industry.

The police said the three men were part of an international ring of racketeers operating for the past five years in South America, the United States and Mexico.

Among their rackets, officials said, was the sale of a "magic" machine supposed to turn out counterfeit Mexican money.

August 21 to 29, inclusive, have been officially set as the dates for the 1954 Missouri State Fair, according to an announcement from L. C. Carpenter, commissioner of agriculture.

The messages urged drives to collect food, clothing and money.

Act In '54 To Broaden SS Program

WASHINGTON (AP)— Chairman Daniel A. Reed (R-NY) predicted today the House Ways and Means Committee will act quickly next year to "broaden and strengthen" the social security program.

Reed, in a statement, suggested three specific reforms in the system now providing government death or retirement benefit coverage to some 65 million workers:

1. Extension of the system to cover millions "who have been arbitrarily denied this protection in the past." President Eisenhower has proposed extending coverage to about 10½ million doctors, lawyers, farmers and others. Reed avoided a commitment to any specific number or group.

2. An increase in the present $25 minimum monthly retirement benefit, "to provide a more realistic floor of protection for those now retired."

3. Liberalizing a present clause which denies retirement benefits to persons between 65 and 75 years of age who make $75 monthly or more in employment covered by the system. About 1,400,000 otherwise eligible aged persons now are denied payments under this clause.

At the same time, Reed repeated his opposition to Eisenhower's proposal to cancel a scheduled Jan. 1 increase in social security taxes. The rate jumps up automatically from 1½ to 2 per cent of wages up to $3,600 annually, paid by workers and employers alike.

"I believe the American people want social security and are willing to pay for it," Reed said. "While I strongly favor tax reduction and believe that the people are entitled to a larger reduction than that now scheduled, I do not believe that such a tax cut should be achieved at the expense of a sound social security system."

Reed's statement, generally fitting a pattern of recent pronouncements by GOP leaders, may have been designed to counter charges by several House Democrats that some Republicans are trying to "smash" the social security program.

Maplewood 4-H Club Selects Year's Project

The December meeting of the Maplewood 4-H Club, held Dec. 9 at Maplewood Hall, was in the form of a Christmas party.

Games were led by Lulu May Gibson and refreshments were served by Mrs. James Ellis to 10 members.

During the business meeting the club members decided that the project this year would be "Wildlife" and other things for the year were planned.

The members plan to go caroling on Dec. 21.

The next meeting will be a health program.

Experts Stress Air Power in NATO Goals In Preliminary Talk

PARIS (AP)—Allied military experts, meeting here in preparation for the 12th conference of NATO ministers next Monday, reportedly are stressing air power in their goals for the Atlantic Alliance's 1954 buildup in Europe.

Informed sources said the top officers will ask for 1,200 more planes during the year. Apparently they think NATO's most dangerous weakness is shortage of aircraft.

The increase would raise NATO's air strength in Europe to 5,600 planes. Russia is estimated to have 20,000.

A 10 per cent boost—from 98 to 108 divisions—will be asked for NATO ground forces, the source said. Most of the increase would be reserve troops.

Would Hike Cotton Acreage for 1954

CHICAGO (AP)—A proposal to increase 1954 cotton acreage nearly 3½ million acres more than the federal government figure of 17,910,448 was approved yesterday by directors of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

The total national acreage under the proposal would be 21,374,000 which compares with the 26 million acres planted this year.

The directors also approved a plan to distribute the additional acreage among the states.

In Washington, Sen. Stennis (D-Miss) said Secretary of Agriculture Benson told him the Agriculture Department will recommend "a reasonable increase" in next year's cotton quotas.

"This does not go far enough," Stennis said, and he urged the secretary to announce the definite figure he will recommend.

Cat Adopts Squirrel With a Little Help

AGOURA, Calif. (AP) — Mr. Peabody, a sharp-toothed squirrel, has been adopted by Mrs. Timothy, a cat which has three kittens.

Mrs. Max Goldsmith found the baby squirrel, put him on a bottle, and then—

"I waited until the cat was away and then stroked the kittens just after petting the squirrel in order to transfer the squirrel's odor to Mrs. Timothy's babies. When the cat returned she sniffed around a bit and soon began licking the squirrel."

Arthur Johnson Seized by the FBI

CHICAGO (AP) — Arthur "Fish" Johnston, described by police as "one of the biggest fences in the country," was seized yesterday by FBI agents who said they found a million dollars in merchandise in his North Side apartment on the eve of his trial in a 1950 stolen goods case.

Johnston was arrested with Joseph Tabet, 40, and Adolph Kapachinski, 39, who were scheduled to go to trial today in the three-year-old case. Tabet and Kapachinski were with Johnston in his apartment.

The raid followed a 24-hour delay government prosecutors obtained in U. S. District Court in the trial of the three, on the grounds of "an emergency."

Kline Weatherford, agent in charge of the Chicago FBI office, said the merchandise seized included 300 men's suits, a quantity of men's slacks, cameras and photographic quipment, cases of whiskey, several small bags of diamonds and jewelry, furs and other miscellaneous items. He estimated the value at at least a million dollars.

Donovan Makes Short Seattle Stop, Says Little to Reporters

SEATTLE (AP)—William J. Donovan, United States ambassador to Thailand and wartime chief of the Office of Strategic Services stopped shortly in Seattle last night on a trip to Washington for "consultation at the State Department."

The 70-year-old diplomat expressed surprise when met by reporters, asking what "all the fuss" was about and generally responding to question with an "I don't know anything."

He said, however, that recent Viet Nam successes against Communist forces in Indochina were a hopeful sign but it is too early to "make any general appraisal."

Asked for comment on the fact the names of several old OSS employes have been named recently as linked with Soviet espionage in the United States, Donovan sighed and said:

"There are casualties in everything."

Baby Tornado Causes Damage of $100,000

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP)—A wind storm, described by witnesses as a "baby tornado," whistled through a West Side residential section of this southern Ohio city last night, ripping off roofs, uprooting trees, leveling garages and tearing down power lines.

Damage was estimated at $100,000. No one was hurt.

Stand Firm Against Hike Of Debt Limit

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Democratic and Republican senator who helped shelve President Eisenhower's request for a hike in the national debt limit last August said today they are standing firm.

Senators Malone (R-Nev) and Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo) said in separate interviews they are still against any increase.

Both are on the Finance Committee, which voted 11-4 to table the debt limit boost despite strong pleas from Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey and Budget Director Joseph M. Dodge.

There have been strong hints from the Treasury that a renewed request for an increase from 275 to 290 billion dollars will be made to the Senate soon after Congress comes back Jan. 6. The House okayed such a hike last summer and, if the amount were not changed, would not have to act again.

The issue could become one of the first to embroil the Senate in 1954. The Treasury has argued it will be difficult and perhaps impossible to finance operations of the government next year without raising the debt ceiling. Indications are the administration still faces an uphill fight in the Senate Finance Committee.

Sen. Byrd (D-Va), a leader in the fight against the boost last summer, said recently he was as determined as ever to block it.

Malone said today he felt the present debt limit was a safeguard against further tax boosts and he added: "I didn't come here to destroy the taxpayers of America."

Johnson said he remains "unalterably opposed" to the boost. He said he regards the ceiling as the last opportunity for Congress to keep some control of federal spending.

Boy, 17, Grandmother, 45, Are Married

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—A husky 17-year-old and the 45-year-old grandmother who "fought against loving him" settled down to married life in the bride's home today.

Mrs. Ann Statum, divorced mother of six children, became Mrs. Clarence Wilson Houk here yesterday at a coorthouse ceremony. The bridegroom's father, McKinley Houk, signed the marriage license for his son.

"We know we're going against public opinion," Mrs. Houk said. "But we want people to understand that it took courage to finally make this step."

Houk said his chief concern was for the children, the oldest of whom is 19-year-old Billy Statum, a Marine private two years older than his stepfather. Statum himself is father of a 2-year-old girl.

"I want them to be hurt as little as possible," Houk said, "but we're going to be a family, and whatever happens, we'll face it together."

Still No Proof Cigarettes Cause Cancer of Lung

NEW YORK (AP)—Tobacco company stocks took a tumble Wednesday, apparently reacting to medical and scientific reports which hinted at a connection between cigarette smoking and lung cancer.

The reports, however, have not gone unchallenged.

E. Cuyler Hammond, Yale professor of biometry (statistical studies of human life) and statistical research director for the American Cancer Society, says there still is no proof — only indications—that cigarette smoking causes lung cancer.

At New Haven, Conn., yesterday Hammond said a study he is directing of the smoking habits of 204,000 men does not warrant "even a most preliminary analysis of the relationship between smoking and cancer."

Concerning other studies already made of smoking in relation to human cancer, Hammond said:

"Certain investigators, including myself, are not completely convinced as to the validity of the results in spite of the fact that a number of independent studies conducted in more or less the same way led to more or less the same apparent conclusions."

However, Hammond added, laboratory evidence gives no positive proof that cigarette smoking causes lung cancer "but it is highly suggestive."

Mexico Will Import Its Christmas Trees

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Mexico is going to have at least 112,019 legal Christmas trees this year. The Agriculture Department has issued permits for the import of too many foreign-grown trees so far.

The government forbids the cutting of trees in Mexico. It's trying to build back depleted forests.

And there's no law against trees of metal, or some other non-growing material.

Neighbors Complain Too Many Suitors Visit Young Sisters

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Neighbors filed charges recently against a young swain and complained suitors of two teen-age sisters on West Eubanks street were turning the block into another Times Square.

Yesterday, resigned neighbors said the situation is "as normal as you can expect when two pretty girls are concerned," and asked the suit be dropped.

Harry T. Hudson, the harassed father of the girls, replied when asked if there was any slowdown in traffic since the suit: "I can't tell the difference."

Harvard Invites HST And McCarthy Debate

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., (AP) — The chairman of the Harvard law school forum said today he has invited Harry S. Truman and Sen. Joseph McCarthy to debate on Communism in this country.

Herschel Shanks, 23, the chairman, said he sent the invitations Dec. 2 but has not yet heard from either.

The law student said he suggested March 5 "or thereabouts" for the debate.

In Washington, McCarthy told newsmen he had accepted the invitation. He said he had no information as to whether Truman would do so, but that "I'll be glad to appear if Truman cares to."

Baby Helps Adult Learn How Much Common Sense Baby Has

NEW YORK (AP)—Some people have been spreading ugly rumors about babies.

They say babies are little animals that make you get up at 2 a.m., to feed them. They say babies often get cross for no reason and cry merely for exercise. They say babies get spoiled quicker than any other known protein.

It is a good thing babies don't know the adult half-truths and plain perjuries that are told about them, or they might all get colic.

Some four months age a young lady named Tracy Ann, who will be half a year old on Christmas Eve, came into our home and adopted my wife and me after a brief trial. The first thing I learned about her was that all I had ever heard before about babies was absolutely wrong.

This isn't mere parental pride. It is pure fact. You simply have to have a baby around to realize how much more common sense one has than the average grownup.

A grownup will weep, rail at the world, indulge in excesses, or feel sorry for himself for almost any reason, and often for no real reason at all. He needs no excuse to become intemperate or to indulge in excesses, or feel sorry for himself for almost any reason, and often for no real reason at all. He needs no excuse to become intemperate or to indulge in self-pity the most widespread of human vices.

But a baby is born temperate and reasonable, I have a theory that no baby makes a fool of itself until some grownup sets it a bad example.

Tracy Ann, for example, has already worked out a simple four-rule formula of life that has kept her healthy and happy, and might profitably be followed by many an adult. These are her rules for successful living:

1. Eat three balanced meals a day with no snacks in between, and be sure to get rid of bumps promptly.
2. Sleep when you're sleepy.
3. Keep your diaper dry, or arrange to have it changed promptly if it isn't.
4. Avoid loud noises. They are hard on the nervous system.

In the four months since Tracy Ann adopted us there has been no such thing as a 2 a.m. feeding. She has cried a total of exactly four times—once when a burp got lost in her and we had a hard time getting it out, once when we kept her up too late, once when we failed to recognize her diaper emergency alarm signal, and once when a playful visitor bellowed imitation baby talk in her startled face.

The important thing was she never shed a tear except when one of the rules that keep her happy was broken. And she never breaks the rules herself.

"Wait until she gets bored and you have to entertain her," friends say. But so far Tracy Ann doesn't need to be entertained, and I suspect few happy babies do. They entertain you.

Tracy Ann recently discovered her toes, a meeting that can be compared historically only with that between Stanley and Dr. Livingston.

She also has her music lessons to keep her occupied. I certainly don't intend to brag on her, but do you know any other baby who can play Beethoven's Fifth Symphony with her feet?

Her musical instrument is her first toy, a rubber cat with a whistle in it. She likes to thump it with her feet and play the famous first four notes of the Beethoven symphony—"Boom -ti- ti-boom! Boom-ti-ti-boom!" I doubt if the cat will hold up until she learns the rest of the score. Its whistle is getting a bit hoarse.

Tracy Ann is also doing well in mathematics. I let her play with my high school algebra book, and the minute I turned my back she was trying to absorb the table of contents and the first four problems.

Swedish Nobel Unit Honors 5, Winnie Absent

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) —The Swedish Nobel Foundation today honored five men famed in science or letters, but the most famous of them, British Premier Winston Churchill—was not on hand to receive his literature prize.

Instead his smiling wife, Lady Churchill, stepped up to King Gustaf Adolph, stiffly curtised and accepted the diploma, medal and $33,840 check which the Bermuda conference had prevented the British prime minister from coming to receive himself.

Before her, four scientists—a Dutchman, a German, a Briton and an American—had received similar 1953 awards from the fortune left by Alfred Nobel, the inventor of dynamite.

Earlier today, in Oslo, Norway, the 1953 Nobel Peace award had been presented to the American soldier-statesman, Gen. George C. Marshall, for his sponsorship of postwar aid to Europe, and the 1952 peace prize to the famed Alsatian-born medical missionary and Christian philosopher, Dr. Albert Schweitzer.

The winners in the field of science were:

Chemistry — Dr. Hermann Staudinger, 72, of Freiburg, West Germany.

Physics—Prof. Frits Zernike, 65, of Groningen, the Netherlands.

Medicine—Dr. Fritz Albert Lipmann, 54, professor of biochemistry at Harvard medical school Cambridge, Mass., and Dr. Hans Adolph Krebs, 54, of Sheffield, England. Both are German born.

Each laureate heard a lengthy tribute from a leading Swedish expert in his field before stepping down carpeted steps from the platform to where King Gustaf Adolf awaited him in the front row of the jam-packed Stockholm concert hall.

There he was handed an embossed leather folio containing his illuminated citation, the check and a golden plaque.

White House Remains Hopeful Of Red Approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House said today the United States still is "very hopeful" Soviet leaders will recognize President Eisenhower's international atomic pool proposal "for what it is—a serious and feasible first step toward atomic peace."

James C. Hagerty, presidential press secretary, made the statement in reply to requests for comment on Moscow's adverse reaction to Eisenhower's plan.

Radio Moscow accused the President last night of threatening atomic war.

The proposal by Eisenhower called for the creation of an international pool of atomic materials and know-how for peaceful purposes.

Hagerty read this statement to newsmen:

"We do not believe that immediate reaction to President Eisenhower's atomic proposal necessarily represents the considered decision of the Soviet government.

"After all, the President always recognized that his suggestion would require thoughtful study.

"Therefore, any 24-hour reaction by Soviet officials or by Soviet propaganda media cannot be accepted as anything more than a stopgap, interim statement.

"We are still very hopeful that the Soviet leaders will recognize the President's proposal for what it is—a serious and feasible first step toward atomic peace."

Nixon Continues His Talks With Iranian Leaders In All Fields

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Vice President Richard Nixon, on a three-day fact-finding visit to Iran, continued talks today with the country's political, labor and agricultural leaders and U. S. embassy officials. He is to be guest of honor at a reception and state dinner tonight given by Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi.

Thousands of Iranians gave Nixon what American officials described as an unusually warm reception upon his arrival yesterday from Pakistan. Expected Communist demonstrations did not materialize.

Bundestag Appeals To Big Four Powers For Unified Germany

BONN, Germany (AP)—The West German Bundestag (lower house of Parliament) appealed to the Big Four powers today to "contribute to the peace of the world" by agreeing at the Berlin foreign ministers conference to unite this divided country.

A Bundestag declaration approved by a unanimous vote called on the United States, Russia, Britain and France to support a five-point plan for the unification of Germany.

The Bundestag plan, drafted last spring, includes:

Free nationwide elections, formation of a free all-German government, conclusion of a peace treaty, settlement of all outstanding territorial questions in this peace treaty and guarantees of diplomatic freedom for an all-German government within the framework of the United Nations.

Reds Say Kremlin Wants No Part Of A-Energy Pool

LONDON (AP)—Soviet spokesmen gave strong indications last night that the Kremlin wants no part of President Eisenhower's proposal for an atomic energy pool for peaceful uses.

There was no "official" reply from the Soviet government, but a top propaganda commentator on Moscow radio, Boris Lentyev, described the American proposal as a rehash of the Baruch atomic control plan the Russians have always rejected. Leontyev added that the U. S. President had "threatened atomic war."

In the United Nations Assembly, Russian Delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky declared: "You cannot insure the use of atomic energy for peaceful purposes without unconditional prohibition and strict international control (of atomic weapons)."

U.N. deliberations on atomic energy control have been deadlocked for several years by Russia's insistence on an immediate ban and West's counter demand for a workable control and inspection system first.

The initial Soviet reaction came as the Western world generally applauded the plan, outlined by Eisenhower Tuesday in a speech before the U.N. Assembly. Newspapers in India also welcomed it as a "rent, however small, in the atomic curtain."

Although some Western sources still expressed a faint hope that the official Soviet answer might be more favorable, the first Russian comment obviously had been cleared with Kremlin propaganda and foreign affairs authorities before it was made public.

Outlining his plan for a U.N. commission to which atomic powers, including Russia, would contribute fissionable materials and skill for peaceful purposes that would benefit the whole world, Eisenhower warned that man must control atomic power or it will destroy him.

He declared the growing U.S. stockpile of atomic weapons "exceeds by many times the explosive equivalent of all bombs and shells dropped or fired all over the world during World War II."

Seizing on this part of the speech, Leontyev said: "There is a spate of phrases on an alleged desire for peace on the part of the United States . . . But if you analyze his speech, Eisenhower threatened atomic war and made a eulogy of this policy of force."

"It is clear that the United States does not want to bring about an international detente (relaxing of strained relations)," he continued. "The warmongering speech of President Eisenhower and the attitude adopted in the United Nations by the U. S. delegation proves this sufficiently."

In his talk, broadcast first in French and then in English, Leontyev termed the President's plan merely another dressed-up version of the atomic control system presented to the United Nations June 14, 1946, by America's Bernard Baruch.

This plan, calling for an international system of control and inspection leading to outlawing of atomic weapons, has been approved by the majority of U. N. member nations but has repeatedly run into a Russian veto.

Will Try to Shift Girl's Heart, Stomach

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Physicians are going to see whether they can do something about nature's error in misplacing 3-month-old Harriett Ann Kidd's heart, stomach and liver.

The Cape Girardeau infant's heart and stomach are on the right side of her body and her liver is on the left side—just the opposite of where they should be. The baby girl is to be brought to St. Louis Children's Hospital today for an examination by physicians.

The physicians say Harriett's heart, in its present position, won't be strong enough to circulate the blood properly as she grows older.

Harriett is the daughter of Mrs. Woodie Kidd, the mother of four other children, all normal.

Away for Christmas, Hope for Future—

Two Sedalians With Muscular Dystrophy Enter Hospital

It means Christmas away from home for Bobby Wolf and Renee Cook, but maybe it means that the Christmas light is shinging down upon them. It may mean that a chance to conquer muscular dystrophy, or at least the first steps, are coming quicker than they dared to dream.

It was Sunday morning that both Mrs. Wolf and Mrs. Cook received a call from the school nurse, Mrs. John Murrell, asking them to take their children to Columbia Tuesday. Dr. Stuart would be there that day and would examine them. Dr. Stuart has done a lot of research on muscular dystrophy.

So the two mothers took their youngsters to see the doctor.

In the Wolf home the coming of Christmas this year was a real struggle. They had lost one son, Gene, with muscular dystrophy a few months ago and Bobby's morale was low. But Mr. and Mrs. Wolf were planning a nice Christmas just the same, the best they could posibly have under the circumstances. And then came the sudden opportunity to at least try to do something for Bobby.

Bobby is to stay at the University Hospital for several days and then be transferred to the Blosser Home at Marshall, where he will probably be for several months.

It was like the answer to the Letter Carriers' call for help in the fight against muscular dystrophy. The money they were getting for research in the terrible disease was paying dividends. Bobby and Renee were at least going to get treatment.

This is the first time in his 14 years that Bobby has ever been away from home and he will probably get mighty homesick, his mother thinks. She is sorry he can't be home for Christmas, but if this helps it will be the best Christmas present Bobby ever had.

Bobby, who had just about given up, was very glad to go to the hospital and as his mother left, he said :"Tell everybody to pray for the doctors doing the research."

Renee is only four, but this is not her first Christmas away from home. Last Christmas she was in the Shriners' Hospital in St. Louis.

Mrs. Cook took Renee over for the examination. She didn't dream of having to leave her, and at Christmas time again, too. She didn't know what to do so she called her husband.

"You know this disease can kill," a woman had told her at the hospital, and with an ache in her heart she called Wayne.

There was an ache in Wayne's heart, too, but here was a chance —they had to take it when they could—it might mean everything to Renee and to them, so he said as bravely as he could: "Leave her there."

Dr. Stuart has put both Bobby and Renee on a diet, a diet that seems to be helping children with muscular dystrophy out in California, and they will receive treatments, too.

After about ten days they will both be taken to Blosser Home in Marshall and they will both be there for Christmas. They would probably like Christmas cards, because this is a time when they will need a little extra Christmas. They will be at Blosser about three months and the time will be long for them, and very long too for their mothers and dads. But wouldn't it be wonderful if the prayers for Bobby and Renee would be answered and the doctors would find a cure for muscular dystrophy?

Wants Pension For Aged Taken Over

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Missouri's welfare director suggested today the federal government should take over the whole problem of old age assistance, leaving other welfare programs to be handled by the states on their own.

Proctor N. Carter proposed this solution to the state's growing old age assistance headache in a speech prepared for a meeting of the Kansas City Council of Social Agencies.

"I am apprehensive," Carter said, "that the time will come when the old age assistance program will grow to the point that it will far overshadow other state services and they will suffer accordingly.

"Further, any recession in the general economy of the country would send the old age assistance rolls soaring even higher than they are now.

"The legislature is under pressure every time it meets for increased payments to aged persons and for more liberal assistance laws to allow more old people to come on the rolls. As long as we have so many persons receiving aid, this pressure will not abate. There is no indication that the welfare laws will be tightened, and accordingly the only solution I see is for the federal government to take over the entire burden and relieve the states of this cost."

Carter said the federal government could either blanket Missouri's 132,000 old age assistance clients into the present social security system, or set up a system of flat federal pensions administered by the federal government.

If that were done, he said the state should take the full responsibility for the other welfare programs—aid to dependent children, aid to the disabled, aid to the blind, child welfare services and general relief. The federal government now pays about two thirds of the cost of these programs, except general relief.

Carter noted that the President had asked Congress to extend the present social security program.

"It appears to me," he said, "that since the federal government has recognized the problem of the aged as national in scope and now cares for the bulk of the aged through the social security program, and pays two-thirds of the costs of those on old age assistance, they might as well take the entire program over in its administration and financing."

The welfare director estimated that the total old age assistance cost for the 132,000 now on the rolls would amount to $161,682,600 for the two years ending June 30, 1955. That is 68 per cent of Missouri's total welfare cost, which will be $235,000,000 for the biennium.

That means one out of every three state tax dollars will be spent on welfare.

Carter explained that the legislature, almost every session, relaxes the laws to let more persons come on the rolls. Laws passed earlier this year, he said, will add about 5,000 and increase the cost accordingly.

Moscow Radio Treats Ike's Speech Tersely

LONDON (AP)—Moscow radio dismissed President Eisenhower's atomic speech with just 56 words in its home service news bulletin this morning.

"In the introductory part of his speech Eisenhower had stated that he felt it incumbent upon himself to speak today in a new language—in the language of the atom war."

Doctor Held For Stealing Feature Baby

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — A 48-year-old San Diego osteopathic surgeon has been charged with stealing an unwed mother's premature baby and keeping the child in his home for eight months.

Dr. Winford T. Mooney was formally charged with baby stealing yesterday and will have a preliminary hearing Jan. 5. He was released on $2,000 bail.

The baby's mother, a 31-year-old bank teller, had been told, by Dr. Mooney's own admission, that the baby had died and had been cremated.

Dist. Atty. Don Keller said the mother told him she gave irth to a boy unaided in her apartment and then summoned Dr. Mooney and turned the infant over to him for care.

The mother informed the baby's father when she was told the boy had died. Keller identified the father as Air Force Capt. Archie Bower, now stationed at Ft. George Wright, Spokane, Wash. Bower is now married.

"If my baby is alive, I want him," Keller said the mother told him yesterday.

Keller said Bower informed him that he and Mrs. Bower want to adopt the baby, identified only as Bobby.

The district attorney said that a release with the mother's signature was found in Dr. Mooney's office files. The woman said the doctor persuaded her to sign a blank form.

Dr. Mooney admitted to newsmen that he had kept the baby at his home since its birth last March 24. "We'd hate to lose Bobby now," he said, adding that he and his wife planned to adopt the infant.

A separate award is given for each of the seven things listed above.

The Green Ridge chapter has a gilt chain to help freshmen get started with a project of their own. A six months old gilt is given to the selected boy and in return he is to give back two six months old gilts to the chapter out of the first litter.

Segregation Issues Rest In High Court

WASHINGTON (AP)—The immense question whether racially segregated public schools are constitutional rested today with the Supreme Court, but a decision may be a long time coming.

Three days of clashing legal arguments on the years-long controversial issue ended yesterday afternoon, as undramatically as the windup of the most routine case.

"Any rebuttal?" Chief Justice Warren asked H. Albert Young, Delaware's attorney general.

"No rebuttal," Young replied.

The white-haired chief justice nodded, and the court went on to other cases.

The ruling on whether separate schools for white and Negro pupils goes against the Constitution may still be months away.

The court's current term doesn't end until the latter part of June. The justices have until then to clear their docket before summer recess.

The District of Columbia and four states are directly involved in the pending cases—Virginia, South Carolina, Kansas and Delaware. They contend separate schools are legal under the Constitution and in harmony with the court's "separate but equal" ruling in 1896.

But attorneys for Negro parents who brought the suits insist that segregation in itself is unconstitutional regardless of the equality of school facilities. The Eisenhower administration, through the Justice Department, backed this position.

The court's decision, should it strike down segregation, also would affect 16 other states.

Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, Missouri, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Texas and West Virginia also require school segregation.

New Mexico and Wyoming, like Kansas, have laws making segregation permissive, but not mandatory.

The three days of arguments, for the most part, closely followed those of a year ago when the five cases were debated for the first time. The high court reached no decision then, but in June called upon the attorneys for a restatement of their contentions, with special emphasis on legal questions propounded by the justices.

What the court must decide specifically is whether (1) to stand behind its half-century-old doctrine that racial segregation is valid provided Negroes are given equal facilities or (2) to overturn it and rule that segregation in itself offends the constitution.

Don't Shun Eye Make-Up

Some older women, realizing that eye make-up can give one a hard look, use none. Yet, when applied with discretion, eye make-up brightens the face considerably. And it is the older women who particularly can benefit from this help.

Using a pencil, for example, will bring out the character of eyebrows that have become sparse through the years. Short strokes made back against the hairs will give the most natural look.

The brow line should be followed, of course. Nothing is more hardening than a heavy, straight line slashed across the brows. Since the natural eyebrow is most popular today, it should not be necessary to pluck more than an occasional stray hair.

A light stroking with mascara will make the lashes look longer and more luxuriant. Black mascara should be used only if the lashes are dark. And the excess should be brushed away carefully when the lashes have dried.

Petroleum jelly can be used quite successfully on dark lashes as a substitute for mascara. And used instead of eye shadow, it adds lustre to the lids.

Costa Rica's New President Wants Bigger Piece of Banana

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica — Jose Figueres wants a bigger share of the banana.

Figueres is the new, bouncing, half - pint president of Costa Rica. The banana is Costa Rica's principal industry. There's also coffee, hemp and minerals — but mostly it's the millions of pale green bananas shipped northward to the U. S. that Figueres wants to slice up more equitably, as he sees it, for his people.

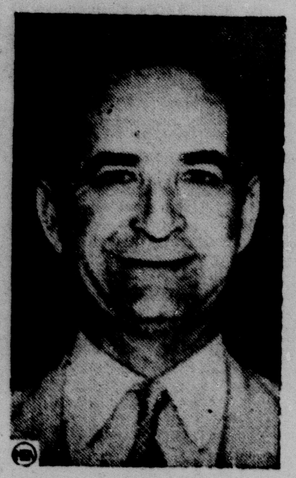

In a small way this is the story of the Iranians, their oil and the British refiners at Abadan. The British refused to give the Iranians the division they wanted so the Iranians threw them out and nationalized the refineries.

Figueres, who is ardently anti-Red and pro-U.S., a former student at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, doesn't want to throw out United Fruit Company, the banana colossus of Central America.

What he wants now is 50 per cent of the proceeds of foreign investments here instead of the 15 per cent tax contracted for in 1949.

But eventually he wants the whole banana.

"Hemispheric policy demands the gradual withdrawal of foreign capital," he told a group of American newsmen who came here at the time of his inauguration. 'But that can be done without confiscation or violence."

FIGUERES: Neither "hate-the-foreigner" nor nationalistic.

Eventually, he told us, he would like to see Costa Ricans handling all aspects of production down to the dock side—including the profits. There the bananas (or coffee or other products of Costa Rica's labor) would be turned over to U. S. shippers who would make their profit on distribution rights.

Figueres is acclaimed as the last great hope of Central America by some but by others as dangerously socialistic. He's 5 feet 3, 47 years old, divorced and childless. He neither drinks nor smokes. He is a keen student of economics and fluent in English.

Figueres took office under the eyes of delegations from 40 nations and with the blessing of the Roman Catholic Church.

"I want to overcome the dividing of rich and powerful countries from poor countries," he said. "I favor Costa Rican ownership of its land and industries, not absentee ownership by strangling foreign capital. We can no longer tolerate having a government within a government.

"My position is neither 'hate-the -foreigner' nor nationalistic. But I am for gradual withdrawal of economic occupation of my country."

As the boom of 21 guns saluting the new president drifted over the golf links of the nearby country club, one representative of large - scale foreign investment shook his head and lamented wryly, "I wish those cannon had been loaded with shrapnel."

Democratically elected — in the American meaning of the term—and with a heavy majority in the Legislative Assembly behind him, Figueres hopes to force through a program of social legislation. This would include better conditions for agricultural workers, housing and social security.

Bananas will pay largely for these reforms.

"The United Fruit Company should leave in our country one-half of the profits obtained here," he insisted. "And we ask the Company to abandon all discriminations, such as non - payment of custom duties and the differences in rate exchanges."

However, he admitted, United Fruit has done many good things as well as bad.

"They have created a modern, scientific banana - raising technique, opened and developed the market for our bananas, built up a transportation system and have materially contributed to the wealth of the hemisphere," he explained.

But he is determined ultimately to buy out all United Fruit holdings and sell the land to small Costa Rican farmers. He plans also to take over the services which the Company is now operating, such as schools, hospitals and airports. However, he says he will ask the company to continue in perpetuity as selling and distributing agents.

"All this can be accomplished without loss to investors and without any illegality," he asserted. "We hope to get the money from an Import-Export loan which we can amortize over the years as Costa Rica develops her own economy."

In the meantime, however, he wants to tax 50 per cent of the take.

Lamb Price Down In Markets Over Nation This Week

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Various cuts of lamb at slightly lower prices will be prominently featured when food stores across the country post their specials for the coming weekend.

Many stores will trim prices on legs of lamb by a couple of cents a pound. There also will be specials on lamb chops, lamb shoulder roasts and other cuts.

Beef will remain on the "good buy" list, with prices generally about the same as a week ago. But pork has started to climb again. One chain has announced it will boost its prices on center cut pork chops by as much as six cents a pound in widely scattered parts of the country.

Frying chickens will be a bit lower in some stores. On the other hand, one meat specialist noted that hen turkey prices have started to edge up. Egg prices will be higher in some areas and lower in others.

Most vegetables were unchanged to a little lower on the produce markets this week. The best buys include potatoes, cabbage, kale, collards, spinach, lettuce and brussels sprouts, the experts said. Good buys are cauliflower, cucumbers, eggplant, escarole, onions, radishes and sweet potatoes. Tomatoes are a little lower than a week ago, but produce men still consider them high priced.

Avacados and apples were named as the best buys in fruit. Emperor grapes and pears also were mentioned. Most citrus fruits were a little lower this week.

Striped College 4-H Club Plans Events

The Christmas party for Striped College was held Dec. 7 at the school and many things were planned, along with having the fun of the party. The group decided to make sock dolls for the nursery on Dec. 10, to give five gallons of gas to the men who took the members on recent hay rides, to go Christmas caroling on Dec. 21 and to fill out the program books on Dec. 28.

The leaders passed out 4-H membership cards and pins.

Roll call was answered with: "My Favirite Christmas Carol."

Irene Shipley sang the song, "I Saw Mama Kissing Santa Claus."

The meeting adjourned and the remainder of the evening was devoted to the Christmas party at which time there was an exchange of gifts. Refreshments were served to 34 members and visitors.

Disease War On Rabbits Is Hare-Grazing Story

By TOM A. CULLEN
NEA Special Correspondent

LONDON—(NEA)—It all goes to prove that one man's stew may be another man's poison.

In Australia scientists are congratulating themselves on wiping out 90 per cent of the rabbit population with a man-made plague called myxomatosis.

In England, where the rabbit disease has made an unexpected appearance, they're busy trying to stamp it out.

As for France—zut alors!—the mild-mannered professor who introduced the disease, far from being a public hero, is regarded as an assassin.

Poor Professor Paul Armand-Delille—he was only trying to get rid of the wild rabbits on his Normandy estate by inoculating a few of them with myxomatosis.

Now the butchers blame him, because there's no cheap meat. Women howl for his scalp, because he's deprived them of cheap furs. Millions of French sportsmen have nothing left to shoot at but sparrows.

• • •

Quicker than one can pronounce Armand-Delille, the virus which he let out of the bag had spread across the interior of France. French highways were strewn with dead rabbits.

It then raced through Belgium and Germany, hopping the Channel and landed squarely in southern England.

The first British outbreak occurred on a farm in Kent in October. By now it has spread to the Sussex Downs, where pest control officers are trying desperately to hold it in check.

"If the disease is not controlled by spring," warns a British ministry spokesman, "Britain's rabbits are doomed."

Myxomatosis affects only rabbits and hares. It partially paralyzes them. Their bodies swell and they drag themselves around blind, deaf and in great pain for several days before dying.

Inevitably, Britons have divided themselves into pro- and anti-rabbit factions. Due to the painful nature of the disease, animal lovers and protection societies are demanding that the rabbits be spared.

But farmers, faced with $210,000,000 worth of damage every year from rabbits, say, "Let it spread!"—meaning the rabbit disease.

"If the rabbit is to be protected, why not the rat?" argues Lord Rennell, of the anti-rabbit faction.

While Britons argue the "to be or not to be" of the rabbit dilemma, the British Health Ministry has wired-up the farms where the infection is known to exist, in an effort to keep it from spreading further.

In Australia, the problem is different. When the early settlers at Botany Bay discovered that five rabbits had survived a voyage from Britain they were jubilant. They soon found that the laugh was on them.

• • •

A pair of rabbits can produce as many as 1000 offspring in a year. In Australia the stoat and the weasel, which controlled them in Britain, did not exist.

To prevent their spread, ranchers constructed 1600 miles of fencing—the longest fence in the world—to no avail. The rabbits got through. Since seven rabbits eat as much as one sheep, Australian sheep were being crowded off grazing lands.

In 1950, Australian scientists declared biological war on the rabbits. They introduced the fatal myxomatosis in the State of Victoria, and in little more than two years exterminated 90 per cent of its rabbit population.

Latest reports from Australia, however, are disconcerting. A new strain of rabbits—a sort of "super-bunny" immune to myxomatosis—has made its appearance, according to reports, and is thumbing its nose at the scientists.

Do You Like MOVIES?

● You and your family might very well prefer to stay home if the neighborhood theater used a film projector like this curiosity.

But back in 1891 the "Phantascope" (as it was then called) caused quite a stir. This motion picture projecture, invented by C. Francis Jenkins of Washington, D. C., was "The first successful form of projecting machine for the production of life-size motion pictures from narrow strips of film containing successive phases of motion." Whew!

Throughout the fabulous development of today's compact and highly efficient movie projectors, electricity has played an important part. The "Phantascope" of 1891, as well as today's projector, are all operated by electricity.

Electricity is even more important to you in your home. You use it every day in many ways. And just as it helped bring you a better movie projector, it is helping bring you a better, a more convenient, way of life. Remember, Reddy Kilowatt is always waiting to help . . . just a cord's distance away.

Head of Girl, Body of Boy Found In Well

PAMPLICO, S. C. (AP)—The battered head of a pretty 15-year-old Pamplico schoolgirl and the body of her boy friend were dug out of an abandoned well near here last night.

Sheriff John Hanna said both had been shot. The decapitated body of Betty Clair Cain was found Monday in a shallow grave overlooking the Pee Dee River. Her companion was Harvey Allen, 22, of Latta.

A medical report said the girl had been raped.

Police announced that several men were being held for questioning. Police Chief Harvey Cross said two young white men were taken to an undisclosed jail for questioning.

Sheriff Hanna said he was holding three men, including two Negroes, in the Florence County Jail. But he emphasized no charges had been placed against them.

Hanna said a wallet and watch were missing from Allen's person. The boy's relatives said he had both when he left home Sunday to go on a date with the girl.

The sheriff said the girl's head and Allen's body were badly beaten. Officers said Allen's face was "so badly beaten that it was hardly recognizable."

A six-man coroner's jury was empaneled and viewed the body and head last night. No date was set for the inquest.

The couple was last seen Sunday at 7:30 p.m. when they left the girl's home on a date. Early Monday Allen's bloodstained car was found behind a Negro schoolhouse some three miles from the river. The headless body of the girl was found in the grave by the river that night.

The search turned to the area of the abandoned well Tuesday after a Negro woman reported she was awakened by lights from a car which drove up to the well before dawn Monday. She said early Tuesday she saw a car drive up to the well, turn around and drive away.

The well is about half a mile from "the bluffs" where the girl's body was found.

A layer of gravel was on top of the well. But fresh earth prompted officers to dig into it. They came upon the girl's coat first. Beneath a pile of cornshucks was her head. Buried below it was Allen's body, stuffed head down. The well is about 10 feet deep.

Delinquent Duck Gets Court Order to Stay In Its Own Backyard

DALLAS (AP)—Mrs. Higginbottom, the delinquent duck, waddled out of Corporation Court yesterday under injunction to stay out of the neighbor's flowers.

The complaining neighbor, Mrs. Ethel J. Cope, testified the duck had made various excursions into her garden to nip at the pansies and gobble asparagus tips.

In court also were the duck owners, Tommy Pisillo, 7, and Linda Pisillo, 8; and their grandmother, Mrs. Nelle Connelley. Mrs. Connelley blamed the duck's wandering on Mrs. Cope's cats. She said the duck was actually chasing the cats and only stopped incidentally to nibble asparagus.

Judge Frank O'Brien ruled, with Mrs. Cope's agreement, that everything would be all right if Mrs. Higginbottom stayed in her own yard.

Warns Against Liquor Gifts to Policemen

DETROIT (AP)—Police Commissioner Donald S. Leonard warned bar owners against giving presents of liquor to policemen.

"We appreciate the distinction between a friend sending our officers a gift in the proper yuletide spirit and our officers going into a bar and asking where Santa Claus is," Leonard said.

Missouri History—

Shot Towers Has a Place As Major Missouri Industry

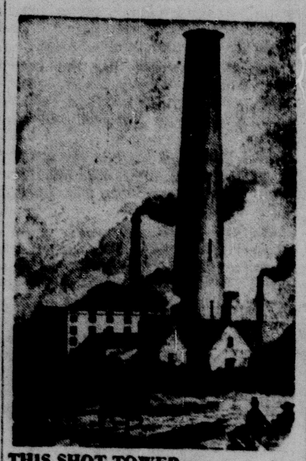

Frontier Missourians used lead shot by the ton. They needed quantities in the everyday business of living and hunting and used great amounts in trading with the Indians for furs.

Since the weight of the metal made transportation expensive, Missourians started making shot locally as soon as they could. Lead shot was made by means of a tower built at the top of a high overhanging cliff. Workmen melted the lead at the top and poured it over the edge into receptacles of water below, with the lead hardening into small round shot on the way down.

During the early part of the 19th century, Missouri lead mining boomed, and with it the shot industry. In 1800, Moses Austin, later famous as a colonizer of Texas, was operating a furnace and manufactory at Mine-a-Breton, now known as Potosi. In the spring of 1801 Austin left Ste. Genevieve and floated down the Mississippi to New Orleans with two flatboats loaded with sheet lead and shot, and on June 2 a New Orleans merchant credited him with $1071.08 for 8300 pounds of shot and 2261 pounds of lead.

Lead from the rich mines around Potosi was also taken to Herculaneum on the Mississippi, where it was cast into pigs for shipping or made into shot. J. N. Maclot completed one of the first towers there in 1809, where he cast shot "equal to the best English patent." Three towers were operating in the neighborhood by 1819. Limestone bluffs at the water's edge near town provided a shot fall of about 100 feet.

On these bluffs the proprietors would erect a wooden tower with a furnace and kettles for preparing, smelting, and casting the lead, which was dropped from a projection in front. At the foot of the cliff was a building and apparatus for glazing and polishing the shot.

They prepared the lead by mixing it with a small quantity of arsenic, which made it more fluid in casting and increased its hardness when cold. It was melted in an iron pot in the upper part of the tower and poured into a sieve made of a copper pan with holes punched in it the size of the shot. Globules of fluid lead dropped through the holes into a container of water far below. By the time they reached the water they had become cool enough to retain their round shape.

The largest size shot required to be dropped from the greatest height, say 140 feet, while the small sizes could be formed in 90 feet. After the lead was prepared, one man could smelt and cast from 4000 to 5000 pounds a day. It took him nine days to polish these. The polishing was done by putting a quantity of shot into a barrel, which was fixed on a shaft and turned by a crank; the friction of the shots against each other wore them into perfect spheres. The workmen added a little graphite to give them gloss, and they were ready for market.

Truck Accident Gives Town Residents Taste Of Artillery Barrage

MALVERN, Iowa (AP)—An ammunition truck which burned after sideswiping with another semi-trailer gave this town of 1,400 a taste last night of what it's like to sweat out an artillery barrage.

The gasoline tank of the ammunition carrier caught fire following the collision and its cargo of 105-mm. shells started exploding.

The blasts continued for more than two hours, sending shrapnel screaming as far as 3,000 feet. One chunk of metal struck an automobile some distance from the scene but the occupant was not hurt.

Malvern residents said the din of the exploding shells was "almost continuous" for nearly an hour, and then tapered off until there was only an occasional blast.

Neither of the drivers was seriously hurt. Officers said they had not determined what caused the accident.

Considers Divorce In Order to Join New Bachelor Club

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—J. Sylvester Covell, middle-aged head of an engineering corporation, says he never expected such enthusiastic reaction when he formed his Bachelors' Club to provide a meeting place for lonely folks of both sexes.

Just the other day, he says, a man telephoned to say "he thought it sounded so interesting he was thinking of getting a divorce."

Old Japanese Fire Goes Back to Work After 7-Year Lapse

TOKYO (AP)—Mitsubishi Shoji, the mammoth company which played a major role in Japanese trade and industry before World War II, is going back into business after a lapse of seven years.

Kyodo news agency said today a merger of four major trading firms—Fuji, Tokyo, Tozai and Mitsubishi—will put Mitsubishi Shoji back in operation next June.

The old Mitsubishi was broken up into more than 100 smaller companies under orders from U.S. occupation forces in July 1947.

Disability Payments Set For Veterans

Veterans Administration today explained to Korean veterans that compensation payments for service-connected disabilities may be allowed retroactively to one of three different dates.

The dates are determined by three different sets of circumstances, one of which is the time the application for compensation is filed.

W. F. Fidler of the local VA office listed the three dates as follows:

1. If the veteran files his application within a year from the date of separation from active service and VA finds that his service-connected disability was severe enough at separation to be compensable, compensation payments may be made retroactive to the day following the date of separation.

2. If the veteran files his application within a year from the date of separation, but his disability was not severe enough at separation to be compensable, compensation payments may be made retroactive only to the date the evidence shows the disability became severe enough to rate compensation.

3. If the veteran files his application later than one year after separation, compensation payments may be made retroactive to the date of filing.

This does not indicate there is a time limit for filing. Veterans may apply for disability compensation at any time during their lives.

Compensation may be paid monthly to veterans who have disabilities which are judged to have been incurred in or aggravated by service in the armed forces either during peacetime or wartime service. The peacetime rate is 80 per cent of the wartime rate unless the disability resulted from extra-hazardous service, in which the wartime rate may apply.

Disability claims for veterans in this area may be filed at the local VA office, 208 South Lamine, Sedalia.

Magistrate Rules It Isn't Crime to Toss Coin for Drinks Bill

NEW YORK (AP)—A magistrate has ruled it is not a crime to match coins or throw dice in a tavern to see who pays for the drinks.

The ruling yesterday by Magistrate Hyman Bushel resulted from the arrest last October of tavern owner Charles Kaelin on gambling charges. Four customers at Kaelin's Falstaff Restaurant had been shooting dice for drinks.

Bushel, dismissing the case, said:

"Patrons of a restaurant, bar or grill not infrequently, by tossing or matching coins, or through some similar means of invoking the laws of chance, will determine who shall pick up the check or pay for the drinks."

Sen. McCarthy Calling More Witnesses Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) called 10 witnesses for another public hearing today in his quest for evidence of Soviet spying on radar secret at Ft. McCarthy told reporters in advance he hoped some of the witnesses would shed more light on the case of Aaron H. Coleman, a radar scientist suspended in September on security grounds from his job at the New Jersey fort. Army Signal Corps research laboratories are located there.

Coleman swore yesterday he has violated no espionage laws. But McCarthy told the scientist he has asked the Justice Department to have a grand jury investigate whether Coleman violated espionage laws through careless handling of secret documents dealing with radar.

"I may say that on the question of espionage, we don't have any witnesses to say they saw him (Coleman) turn any documents over to an enemy agent," McCarthy told Coleman's lawyer, Francis F. Green of Elizabeth, N. J.

The senator repeatedly referred, however, to Coleman's concession that he "might have" left some classified Ft. Monmouth documents unguarded in an apartment Coleman shared in 1943 at Bradley Beach, N. J., with a man identified only as Harvey Sachs.

Coleman insisted he had no clear memory of whether he actually did leave such documents where Sachs could have read them, but that he might have done so.

McCarthy countered that a grand jury should determine whether that would have been "equivalent" to turning over documents to a Communist agent.

She Obliges Husband's Christmas Request

PATERSON, N. J. (AP)—Mrs. Violet King said in Superior Court yesterday her husband Frank told her what he wanted for Christmas was "a piece of paper saying I am divorced." She has obligingly filed suit, charging cruelty.

Three Bidders Have Low Total for M. U. Hospital Building

COLUMBIA, Mo., (AP) — Three firms, bidding jointly, are apparent low bidders on the eight-story hospital building which will be the nucleus of the University of Missouri's four-year medical school.

The low bidders were the John Epple Construction Co. and the B. D. Simon Construction, both of Columbia, and the W. R. Grimshaw Company of Tulsa, Okla.

Bids opened yesterday showed the low bid for the building was $7,742,821. Epple's bid and the Simon-Grimshaw bid for general construction were slightly above $4,000,000. While Epple made the higher bid, there was a prospect of that firm coming under the others in event certain alternates in the specifications were adopted.

Separate bids were made on electrical work, plumbing, heating and ventilating and other facilities.

University officials are hopeful that the bids can be acted upon at a meeting of the board of curators at Rolla Saturday. The hospital is scheduled to be completed in the late fall or early winter of 1955.

Hopes First Contracts Can Be Let By March 1

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Harry S. Truman says he hopes contracts for the first wing of the Truman Foundation Library will be let before March 1.

The former President escorted two architects around the Truman farm at nearby Grandview yesterday to inspect three possible sites for the library. The building will house presidential papers and other mementos.

Police Are Zoological

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP)—Springfield police had to search in one day for a poisonous snake, a skunk and a 200-pound eagle.

The skunk was killed, with odorous results.

The snake slithered into some brush and got away.

So did the giant eagle. It was an iron lawn ornament stolen from a metal company.

Mother Goes To See Son, Reluctant PW

SEATTLE (AP)—The Minnesota mother of GI who says he doesn't want to return to democracy left here last night with hope and a prayer in her heart that she can change his mind.

The mother is Mrs. Portia Howe, 43, of Alden, Minn., and the son is Pfc. Richard Tenneson, 20, one of 22 Americans taken prisoner by Communist forces in Korea and now unwilling to return to his homeland.

Mrs. Howe flew from here cheered by assurances from Tokyo that the Far East Command has said it "would be happy to discuss problems and possibilities" with her about getting into the Korean demilitarized zone to talk with Tenneson.

The spokesman for the command wouldn't promise that Mrs. Howe could talk to the son but said it would go into the situation with her and "see what can be done."

In Panmunjom, an Indian spokesman offered further hope when he said he believed the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission would make no objection if the American command wants the mother to make explanations to her son.

The Indian spokesman said the rules only limited the number of persons used as explainers who could be of either sex or civilian or military personnel.

Mrs. Howe said here she is convinced she can get her son to come home.

"Supposedly," she told a reporter, "he has rejected his nation and God for communism. I don't believe this was voluntary. I believe the mother-and-son contact will do it because it is backed by prayer. This is a battle between the forces of evil and the forces of God."

She should arrive in Tokyo late today, a Northwest Airlines spokesman said.

Teen-Agers Are Held In Killing, Burying Of Neighborhood Bully

CHICAGO (AP)—Three teen-agers were held by juvenile authorities today after police said they admitted they participated Monday night in the killing, and burying of a youth described as a neighborhood bully.

The body of Leonard Pariano, 20, was found in a shallow grave Tuesday near a South Side coal yard. Lt. John O'Leary said Robert Naminski, 15, admitted hitting Pariano on the head with a crowbar after his two companions had lured him into the coal yard.

O'Leary said Naminski and Ronald Paruszkiewicz, 15, and Lawrence Kennedy, 14, told him Pariano had bullied them and had threatened to kill Naminski's mother. They told O'Leary they decided to "beat up" Pariano to teach him a lesson. All were held without charge.

Bob Thomas In Hollywood---

Former Press Agent for Stars Now Evangelist to Save Souls

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Hal Herman, who until five years ago was a press agent for stars like Rita Hayworth, Deanna Durbin and Rosalind Russell, is back in Hollywood with a different profession. He's trying to save souls.

Those who toured the studios before and after the war remember Hal as a courteous, intent young fellow with sandy hair and a warm smile. He was the art man at Columbia and Universal, which meant that he had to arrange photos of the stars for magazines, ads, billboards, etc.

"I was the contact between the studio and the star," he explains. "I had to induce the stars to come into the studio for portrait sittings, and I encountered my share of temperament. The stars didn't like the work, since they did it on their own time. It was hard work, too. Most stars had two full days of posing. It always took a week with Rita Hayworth."

Hal comes from the small and significantly named town of Friend, Neb. He originally came West to study under a scholarship at Stanford University. Instead, he traveled to Hollywood. He had always been movie struck.

His career in publicity was coming along fine when the war broke out. That's when his life began to change.

He enlisted and rose to become a major under Gen. MacArthur. He took pictures for the invasion of the Philippines and shepherded correspondents and photographers.

"I first started thinking seriously when I was in the Philippines," he recalls. "I was wading through swamps up to my hips and the thought came to me: 'What is real?'

"After the war was ended, I flew into Tokyo and took pictures of Hiroshima. Later I went to Shanghai with some correspondents. I was greatly affected by what I saw. I remember Edgar Snow telling me that the Chinese people had lost faith in everything—their gods, their leaders, their country. No wonder the Communists could take them over."

Hal returned to Hollywood, but his heart wasn't in the job of pampering the glamor dolls. He was restless, and he delved into philosophy and psychology for the answer to his query: What is real? One day a friend counseled him to seek the answer in the Bible. For the first time in his life, he began reading it thoroughly.

"It was on Palm Sunday night at 11:30 in 1947," he remembers. "I was reading through my Bible when suddenly the truth came to me. I heard the will of God. I realized that God was reality, as revealed by our Savior, Jesus Christ. At that moment I decided to become a researcher in spiritual reality.

"I tried to quit my job. I told the publicity chief that I was no longer any good to him, that my interest lay in another field. But he urged me to continue on. I prayed for guidance.

"Meanwhile, I spread the word wherever I could. I talked to everybody I could at the studio. Most of them said I had 'got religion bad,' but I found them amazingly receptive."

The decision was made for Hal eight months later. The Hollywood depression struck, bringing wholesale firings. "I knew it was the answer to my prayers; but I didn't expect five other men to get fired with me," he says.

Offers began pouring in from churches and religious groups that wanted him to speak. He took on another publicity job, this time for a "Youth for Christ" rally that filled Hollywood Bowl to overflowing.

In the past five years, he has spread the gospel through Latin America, Europe, Israel, Egypt and all over the United States. Like Billy Graham, he allies himself with no religion, preaching to all. He has just finished an engagement at the Angelus Temple in Los Angeles.

"I am proudest of the meetings I held in Berlin," he says. "By contributions from churches in this country, I was able to fly a huge tent into Berlin and preach the word of God just 500 feet from the Russian sector, within the view of the godless Communists."

Wigs were worn by both men and women in ancient Egypt.

Perle Mesta Back Again As a Hostess

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Perle Mesta, onetime minister to Luxembourg and recently a tourist to the Soviet Union, is back home to defend her title as "hostess with the mostest."

At a news conference yesterday, Mrs. Mesta said her immediate plans include asking today for an appointment with Secretary of State Dulles to tell him some things she didn't put in the stories she wrote on her Russian experiences—things she says "I can't talk about."

A reporter asked:

Had Mrs. Mesta seen anything on her Russian visit that might make her think the Russians would be willing to cooperate in pooling atomic power efforts, as suggested by President Eisenhower?

"I saw nothing in Russia," Mrs. Mesta replied firmly, "that would make me think they wanted to cooperate with us. But that was a month ago."

As to her future, Mrs. Mesta said:

1. She is going to give a party "just as soon as I find a house."

2. She is beginning a new chapter in her life—writing and lecturing.

Writing a book? "Several publishers are interested." And the lectures? "Never gave a lecture in my life," but she is signed up for 10. The first will be in Houston Jan. 16.

"What will I lecture about? All kinds of things. I'll talk about Washington, Luxembourg, London, Russia."

Her recent articles on Russia were published in this country and in about 18 other countries.

"All the money I make on those, on my lectures and on the book are going into a scholarship fund," she said.

The fund, she said, will underwrite expenses — "all expenses, even toothpaste"—of some foreign students, brought to this country.

"Every country in which a newspaper buys my articles will get to send a student," she said.

Does she plan to run for political office?

"Definitely not—but then I always do the things I say I won't."

AEC Wins National Safety Council Award

WASHINGTON, D. C. (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission (AEC), which supervises the making of industry's deadliest products, today won the National Safety Council award of honor for a low score on death and injury among employes.

The injury rate for employes of AEC contractors was 2.29 per million man hours in 1952, down from 3.02 for 1949-51. The council compared it with the 5.10 rate of the chemical industry.

Direct employes of the commission had 1.96 injuries per million man-hours, down from 2.61. The rate for all federal employes in 1951 was 8.4.

Workers under AEC suffered 11 fatalities in 1952, none due to radiation, but all from ordinary accidents. The 1949-15average was 13.

Vishinsky, 70 Today, Is Not Slowing Down

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Russia's acid-tongued Andrei Vishinsky reached 70 today without showing any signs of slowing down. He said he planned to work as usual.

The Soviet diplomat may have mellowed a bit in his social life, but he has lost none of his energy or his ability to lash out at opponents in debate. Apparently in much better health than he was a few years ago, he follows a schedule that would tax the strength of men 20 years younger.

Vishinsky was 62 when he first appeared on the U. N. scene in London in 1945. His hair already was silvery and his red face deeply lined. His appearance has not changed much.

Long famous for his role as prosecutor in the Soviet purge trials of the '30s, he has been one of the main attractions for U.N. visitors since the beginning.

From time to time, there have been reports Vishinsky was ill, that he had passed his peak and was slipping as a speaker, that he was blundering too frequently and that he would be replaced by a younger man.

If he has any plans for retirement, he has never hinted at them, even privately.

Moscow took official note of his birthday by awarding him the Soviet's top decoration, the Order of Lenin.

Case of Curley Goes to Jury Today

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., (AP) — The case of Everett G. (Curley) Wilson, former grain inspector here for the Missouri Grain Warehouse Department who is charged with obtaining money under false pretenses, was expected to go to the jury today.

The defense presented its final arguments yesterday. Wilson did not testify in his defense. Only character witnesses were introduced.

The state grain warehouse commissioner, A. E. McInerney of Kansas City, told the jury that Wilson admitted to him that he had padded the payroll for the St. Joseph branch and had offered to make restitution.

May Name 3rd Member Of Board to Review Newspaper Truce Terms

NEW YORK (AP)—The name of the third member of a fact-finding panel set up to review terms which ended the 11-day newspaper strike here may be announced today.

Already selected for the board are George Meany, AFL president, and Richard Slocum, general manager of the Philadelphia Bulletin.

The two men agreed on a third fact-finder last night but his name was withheld pending his acceptance of the post.

A strike of 400 AFL photo-engravers against six major papers, causing a seventh to suspend publication, produced the worst newspaper shutdown in New York City history.

Today's edition of the Times carried a front-page box saying that next Sunday the newspaper will distribute a special section with a condensed record of news not published during the strike.

New Alderman Is Butt Of Committee's Joke About Proposed Funds

CHICAGO (AP)—When newly elected Alderman Arthur V. Zelsinski attended his first meeting of the City Council Finance Committee yesterday, he was delighted to hear Alderman John Egan propose that the committee seek $150,000 for improvements in Zelzinski's ward.

Another committeeman said he thought $100,000 was sufficient.

Zelzinski happily gave members copies of a ward map showing where the improvements were needed.

After the proposal was voted down, the other committeemen explained that it was all a gag.

More Mail Pours In For Doomed Kidnapers

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) —Correspondents from all over the country are still flooding the Missouri penitentiary with mail for the Greenlease kidnapers.

Prison officials reported today another hundred pounds of mail has arrived for Carl Austin Hall and Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady, the kidnap killers who die in the prison gas chamber Dec. 18.

Like the 250 pounds received earlier, the latest batch of letters will be turned over to acting U.S. Marshal William B. Tatman. None of it reaches the kidnapers.

Arrested Pilot Is One Franco Gave Reprieve

PARIS (AP)—Paris police say an American pilot arrested here last week on charges of stealing $34,285 worth of gold is the Harold E. (Whitey) Dahl, whose wife's appeal to Generalissimo Francisco Franco during the Spanish Civil War got him out of a death sentence.

The 44-year-old Illinois-born adventurer, a pilot for Swiss Air for the past year, was accused in connection with the disappearance of 59 pounds of gold bullion from a Swiss airplane he piloted from Paris to Geneva Oct. 5.

Paris police said last night they had been told Swiss authorities plan to ask Dahl's extradition to Switzerland for trial there, indicating Swiss and French police have agreed the alleged theft occurred in Switzerland.

Dahl was shot down and captured by Franco's insurgents in 1937 while flying for the Spanish Republicans. He was sentenced to death but Franco reprieved him when his pretty blonde wife sent her photograph and an appeal for mercy to the Spanish rebel chief.

Boy Dies of Burns

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP)— Danny Lee Stuart, 5, Pond Creek, Mo., died in a hospital here last night, after being burned while watching a fire in which his father and another man were critically injured.

Police said Doyle Young, 18, Thornfield, Mo., was working on his car in a Pond Creek garage when a can of gasoline caught fire from an open flame. Billy Stuart was helping him put out the blaze when the gasoline flared up, burning the men and the child who was standing nearby.

Mary Haskell Dies

CLAREMONT, Calif. (AP) — Miss Mary Haskell, 84, sister of the late Henry J. Haskell, editor of the Kansas City Star, died at her home here yesterday.

Miss Haskell was a missionary in the Balkans more than 50 years. Funeral services will be held here Saturday.

Liner, Without Rudder, Heads for Norway Port

NEW YORK (AP)—The Norwegian America liner Stavangerfjord, without a rudder but reporting itself in no danger, ploughed slowly today through the North Atlantic headed for its home port of Bergen, Norway.

The 13,300-ton vessel, carrying 644 passengers, left here Dec. 4.

The coast guard said the ship was between 400 and 500 miles northeast of Newfoundland last night and steering through the use of her twin-screw propellers.

A sister ship, the Lyngenfjord, stood by after the rudder mishap, but the striken liner radioed that it did not require aid.

Wrestling On Saturday Nite Starting at 9

Saturday night wrestling fans will have an opportunity to loosen up their vocal cords when the tag-team match is held in the big ring at the National Guard Armory. The match is sponsored by the Pettis County Post, No. 16, American Legion, and promoted by Joe Adelman of Kansas City.

Adelman has signed Sonny Meyers of St. Joseph to come to Sedalia to meet Lenny Montana, Bronx, N. Y., in a one-fall event and Larry Hamilton, St. Joseph, to meet "Fabulous" Bobby Lane, Tampa, Fla., in a one-fall event.

The one-fall events will have a 30-minute time limit.

In case of a draw in one match, the winner of the other match will draw to see whom he will meet. In case there is a winner in each of the two events, then the winners will meet the losers.

Meyers, who has been steadily climbing the ladder of success in wrestling the past several years, has held the championship belt, has met and beat the best in the wrestling sport. Now back from a tour, he is getting back home for the holidays and a few matches in this section the next few weeks.

Many times he has appeared in Sedalia, starting out under Gust Karras, former promoter here, and local fans will well remember his start. They can now see their "preliminary boy" in the top billings of wrestling.

Montana has been wanting a meeting with Meyers. Saturday night he gets his wish. Whether he likes it or not can be told only after the affair when fans will be screaming for blood.

Jeff Cravath Has Operation, Is Critical

CALEXICO, Calif. (AP) —Former football coach Jeff Cravath of the University of Southern California early today underwent an emergency operation on his right lung, punctured in a traffic accident.

The doctor said "it was touch and go for awhile" and that Cravath remains in critical condition.

Cravath was rushed to Calexico hospital after a truck collision a few miles west of here yesterday. His injuries included brain concussion and multiple rib fractures in addition to the lung puncture.

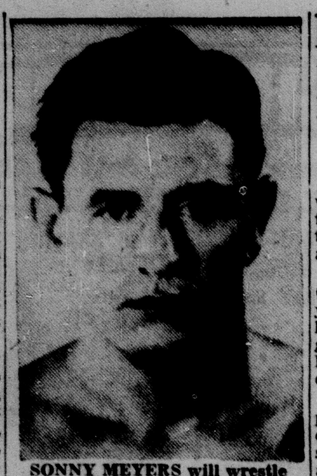

Cravath, 50, retired from coaching in 1950 and came to nearby El Centro more than a year ago to engage in the cattle and produce business.

He coached his alma mater from 1942 through 1950 when he was forced by alumni to resign—with two years left on his contract.

Cravath's pickup truck collided with an asphalt dump truck and he was hurled onto the pavement.

Cravath guided the Trojans of USC into four Rose Bowl games, winning two and losing two.

Cravath in a magazine article this fall aroused much debate with a piece entitled, "The Hypocrisy of College Football." It deplored recruiting and proselyting practices, things in which Cravath candidly admitted having been a participant, but which he argued was something most coaches detested.

SONNY MEYERS will wrestle Lenny Montana, Bronx, N.Y., in matches at the National Guard Armory Saturday nite. Meyers, who comes from St. Joseph, is well known to Sedalia ringsiders. The events will start at 9 p. m.

MIAA Grid Trophy Presented at Kirksville

KIRKSVILLE, Mo., (AP) — A trophy was presented to Kirksville State Teachers College at the annual football banquet last night for winning the MIAA championship.

John Waldorf, MIAA commissioner, made the presentation. Members of the football team were awarded gold footballs.

Kansas Opens Play Tonight With Tulane

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The University of Kansas, a strong contender for the NCAA basketball title, opens its season tonight against dangerous Tulane.

Kansas Coach Dr. Forrest (Phog) Allen, starting his 36th year as head man at Kansas, said he "wouldn't be surprised if we got knocked off" in meeting Tulane, rated one of the South's top cage powers.

The Kansans, nosed out by one point by Indiana for the 1953 NCAA crown, are making a two-game southern tour for "improvement" according to Allen, one of the game's better known pessimists.

Kansas follows the Tulane game by meeting Louisiana State in Baton Rouge Saturday night.

"I don't mind losing a few games early in the season if it improves the team," Allen said.

"The thing I want to win is the Big Seven Conference title," Allen said. "I get more kick out of winning that than the NCAA."

Kansas, a dominant team in the Big Seven during Allen's career, has won the last two conference titles.

Kansas' hopes of repeating among the nation's top teams may hinge on the games against Tulane and Louisiana State.

Tulane, rated a top threat for Southeastern Conference title this season, has more height and Coach Cliff Wells is more than optimistic about his chances.

Louisiana State is again anchored by center Bob Pettit, the 6-9 sharpshooter who has averaged 46 points per game in his first two outings.

Kansas center B. H. Born, rated a top contender for All-America honors, may receive his severest test during the two-game tour. Tulane will have 6-9 Jim Nowakowski in at center while Born will face Pettit at LSU.

Teaming with Born against Tulane tonight will be sophomore Dallas Dobbs and letterman Harold Patterson at guards and regulars Allen Kelly and Larry Davenport at forwards.

Tulane will floor an all-letterman team with the exception of Nowakowski, a transfer student in his first year with the Green Wave, and sophomore guard Bob Delpit. Forwards Dick Brennan and Pat Browne, along with guard Hal Cervini, are all two-year lettermen.

Sports Roundup---

What Dodgers Are to Flatbush So Tennis Is to Australians

MELBOURNE (AP)—You have to see it to understand why this country with less than 10 million rules the tennis world.

What the Dodgers are to Brooklyn, what bull fighting is to Spain, tennis is to Australia, only more so.

Down here at the bottom of the world the racquet sport has become almost a religion. The poor and the rich, the old and the young play it. Everybody talks it.

You have hardly settled back in a cab before the driver asks: "Well, do you think the American bokes are going to take back the cup this year?"

Or he will ask about Lew Hoad's sore shoulder or express concern over Ken Rosewall's timid service.

Ask a New York hack driver about Vic Seixas' sprained knee ligament and you'll probably get, "Sorry, b'b, but I don't speak French."

The doormen and waitresses here discuss the finer points of the game like a pro.

It isn't an odd sight at all to see a dignified grey-haired man in a homburg waiting for a street car with a tennis racquet tucked under one arm. Almost every schoolchild is equipped with a neat leather carrying case for racquet apparel.

The star tennis players, particularly visitors, are idolized like the Joe DiMaggios and Mickey Mantles in the United States. Schoolchildren and adults line up to get autographs.

"Gee, this makes you feel important," said Hamilton Richardson, one of the U. S. Davis Cuppers from Baton Rouge, La. "I could walk down main street at home and nobody would notice me."

Tennis players are scouted and developed just like a piece of promising baseball bric-a-brac in the United States.

But there is one sad note to it. Players like Rosewall and Hoad, each now 19, become tennis robots. Their every move is governed by the Australian tennis bodies and sporting goods firms.

Wilkinson Declares Football Has Vital Place In Way of Life

WICHITA (AP) — Coach Bud Wilkinson of the University of Oklahoma Orange Bowl-bound football team told the Downtown Wichita Quarterbacks last night that football occupies an important place in the American way of life.

"It is the opportunity to accomplish things, not the winning of games that makes the game important," Wilkinson said.

Wilkinson said football is valuable because it "emphasizes competition, the opportunity to excel and the need to make one's own pattern."

Radio is called wireless in England.

Castellani Is Without Any Opponent

CLEVELAND (AP)—Rocky Castellani, with a bruising unanimous decision over Gil Turner under his belt, appeared today to have temporarily fought himself out of opponents.

To go upward, the second-ranking middleweight contender must either battle Randy Turpin, the man one notch above him, or middleweight champion Bobo Olson of Honolulu.

Turpin is in England and has given no indication of returning soon. And there is no immediate prospect of a title bout with Olson.

Al Naiman, manager of the Cleveland fighter, said he would go to New York immediately, however, and try to line up a title fight. "I'm ready to post a check for whatever amount is required to challenge Olson," said Naiman. "My man has proved he is the logical challenger."

He planned to give Castellani a rest of at least a month, and after the encounter with the Philadelphia perpetual-motion man, Rocky could well use it.

Following three slow rounds in which Castellani repeatedly speared Turner with slashing lefts to the jaw while the crowd booed for more action, Turner turned on his famed buzz-saw attack.

From then on it was hammer and tongs every round, with the crowd screaming and the two almost exhausted at the end. Castellani's margin appeared to be better pacing, harder punches and perhaps more stamina.

Castellani weighed 157 to 155 for Turner.

Despite his lower ranking, Turner was an 8-5 favorite for the nationally televised bout on the Cleveland News annual Christmas Toyshop Fund show. The 11,813 customers paid a gross of $72,110.

Snead Favored To Take Front In Miami Open

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Slammin' Sammy Snead was regarded as the man to beat as 165 golfers teed off in the $10,000 Miami Open at the Miami Country Club today.

Snead, the balding mountaineer from White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., has won this fixture five times and indicated he will make a strong bid in this medal play competition.

He fired a 31-34—65 over the 6,570-yard par-70 course in practice yesterday. He collected four birdies on the front side and two coming home.

Playing with Snead was Al Besselink, Grossinger, N. Y., pro, who carded 34-33—67.

Jack Burke Jr., Houston, Tex., who won last year with 273 for the 72 holes, will not be here to defend his title. He recently underwent an appendicitis operation.

Otey Crisman, Selma, Ala., led 74 players who qualified in two days of play. There were 91 exemptions, including most of the nation's leading tournament players.

WINSOME—Yvonne Sugden, 14, smiles with the silver trophy emblematic of the British Women's Amateur Figure Skating Championship. It was a case of a little local girl making good at Streatham (NEA)

Pros Sharpen Aussie Net Stars' Play

MELBOURNE (AP)—Frank Sedgman and Ken McGregor who won the Davis Cup from American in 1950 and successfully defended it in the last two years pitched in today to help condition Australia's new team for the Challenge Cup Round here Dec. 28-30.

Now professionals, they are serving as trial horses for free for the 19-year-old Sydney tennis twins Ken Rosewall and Lewis Hoad, who will defend the trophy on the Kooyong courts.

Under Captain Harry Hopman's experienced eye, the Aussies plan daily practice sessions and gym workouts leading up to the final matches.

"We feel condition is of prime importance," said Hopman. "When the Challenge Round comes up we want our boys to be in peak physical shape."

Meanwhile, Belgian and U. S. forces practiced at Brisbane for their interzone final there Dec. 17-19. The winner meets the Aussies for the big cup.

Bill Talbert, the U. S. captain who has included himself on the playing squad, said Brisbane's 100-degree weather was acting as a boon to his team, which hasn't been able to attain top form.

"Seixas' knee is much better," Talbert said. "He has been going to the net in the last day or so without any signs of trouble."

The slender Philadelphian has been troubled with a sprained ligament suffered in practice three weeks ago.

Illini May Be Toughest For Indiana

NEW YORK (AP)—Although Indiana has been awarded the No. 1 spot in college basketball by the experts in the Associated Press preseason poll, the Hoosiers first have to win the Big Ten title.

Illinois may have something to say about this. The Illini are rated No. 9 in the country and they probably are Indiana's only worry in the conference.

Last night, the Illini made Butler their third straight victim without a loss, 80-48, with 6-foot-9 John Carr hitting for 31 points to bring his total to 823, an all-time Illinois scoring record.

So long as the Illini can send Carr on the floor, they'll be title threats.

The only other ranked school to get into action last night was Dayton, which was rated right behind Duquesne as a power in the East. But the school dropped its first decision of the young season to Miami of Ohio 72-70.

This result could throw an entire new complexion on the East. Fordham, one of the dark horses, won its third straight, defeating Yale 80-51. The Rams, a crew of real sharpshooters, made good 29 of their 56 tries from the floor and Ed Conlin made all nine of his free throws.

Oklahoma City, another team which could cause trouble in the Southwest, raced past Texas A&M 60 - 38. Arnold Short scored 30 points.

Except for Princeton, the Ivy League had a successful night. Cornell broke its own scoring record for a single game in its 92-37 romp against Clarkson. The old mark of 87 points was set only a week ago against Hobart.

Penn defeated Muhlenberg 78-63; Brown trounced Northeastern 73-62; and Harvard recorded a 71-55 victory over Wesleyan.

Princeton dropped a 69-61 decision to Lafayette for the only league loss.

Southern Methodist fought off a last-quarter rally to kick Tulsa 72-70 and Navy scored a 63-55 victory over American International.

Big 7 Faculty Meeting This Weekend

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Big Seven Conference faculty committee will hold its annual December meeting here tomorrow and Saturday.

Reaves Peters, executive secretary, said mostly routine matters make up the agenda.

Athletic directors and business managers of the schools will meet at the same time. The football coaches will meet Sunday.

The faculty is expected to consider several "hardship cases." These are cases where athletes were injured early in a sports season and face the loss of a year of eligibility.

Explorers often have reported land in Arctic seas which dould not be found later and scientists now believe these "lands" are the huge ice islands which drift with the Arctic currents.

Paul Brown Is Kid Who Plays to Win

CLEVELAND (AP)—General manager, coach and quarterback. Which of the three Paul Browns is the real one?

Each of the titles fits him. He seems to put the most heart into calling signals for his team, a sort of 12th player on the sidelines. You could build a logical case for the idea that he is really a quarterback in his other jobs too.

He is known as a great organizer—witness the high school farm system he built in Massillon, which still works. He is thorough—with his note-books and his "special units" he has created a professional team that in eight seasons never has been less than a divisional champion.

He even knows what to do about Paul Brown. In the dressing room after a game he is constantly shuffling his feet and swinging his arms. The other Sunday a reporter asked whether the game hadn't contained a lot of "ulcer material." His reply was, "that's why I keep moving like this. It lets off the inner steam."

But everything about him comes back to the one characteristic that everyone knows, "the intense desire to win." Can he lose?

He had a losing season once. His 1942 Ohio State champions, and even that year's freshmen, went into selective service. Ohio State was left with four men who had flunked their military physicals, and some newly matriculated freshmen. No naval trainees, such as the other schools had. The "baby bucks" of 1943 always led at halftime, but they lost six of their nine games.

For years afterward Brown would grow downright sentimental when that team was mentioned. "They were the most courageous team I ever saw," he said. "I was proud of them."

The old Cleveland Rams, who moved to Los Angeles when the Browns started up, used to feel so lonely in Municipal Stadium they finally moved back to League Park, now a practice field. But the Browns' Stadium attendance for seven league games and the championship in their first year, 1946, was 440,000. By 1948 it had tapered off when the fans decided Cleveland apparently was too good for the rest of the conference, except maybe the San Francisco 49ers.

That winter Brown's original contract, with two years to go, was extended to a total of seven years from then. The group of Cleveland sportsmen who bought the club last summer have a contract which runs through 1955, making 10 years of pro coaching for Brown.

The National League had jeered at the upstart All-American Conference. Elmer Layden, then league commissioner, had said, "go get a football." And whom did the Browns meet in their first National League game? No one but the Eagles, who held the league championship. Cleveland 35, Philadelphia 10.

"Some coaches dread the day of a game," Brown said. "I don't. I love it. I love to get into the game."

General manager, coach and quarterback. Which is the real Paul Brown?

Just call him the kid who plays to win.

Caroline Third Soph to Win Rushing Title

NEW YORK (AP) — J. C. Caroline of Illinois is the third sophomore in the history of modern football statistics and the first in 11 years to win the national major college rushing title.

Final official NCAA Service Bureau statistics released today show that Caroline rolled up 1,256 yards on 194 tries in nine games for the second largest winning margin on record.

The only other sophomores to win the rushing championship were Wake Forest's John Polanski in 1939 and Hardin-Simmons' Rudy Mobley in 1942. Nebraska's Bobby Reynolds compiled more yardage, 1,342, as a sophomore in 1950 but failed to win the title.

Caroline finished 312 yards ahead of All America Dave (Kosse) Johnson, a senior who needed 10 games to amass 944 yards.

The Illinois sophomore averaged 139.6 yards a game, a figure that has been exceeded only six times. And with his sophomore running mate, Mel Bates, the Illini had a two-man combination that produced 1,85 yards. Bates gained 6802.

Minnesota's All-America Paul Giel set a three-year record in the number of times he carried the ball. He ran 198 times this year to bring his total to 551, wiping out the record of 547 Ollie Matson set in 1949-51 at San Francisco. In the exclusive 500-times club, Wisconsin's Alan Ameche joined Giel and Matson with a three-year total of 506.

Oklahoma's Larry Grigg ranks eighth nationally in rushing with 792 yards gained in 130 tries for a 6.09 average. Earl Lunsford, Oklahoma A&M is 12th with 748 yards in 147 attempts.

Pension Team To Meet With Player Group

NEW YORK (AP)—The major league's newly appointed two-man pension committee will meet next week with chief player representatives Ralph Kiner and Allie Reynolds in an effort to make peace between the club owners and players over the pension plan squabble.

"We plan to get together with Kiner and Reynolds real soon," said Cleveland General Manager Hank Greenberg, who along with President John Galbreath of Pittsburgh will represent the owners. "We will discuss this thing openly and honestly and I'm sure we'll come to an amicable understanding."

Greenberg and Galbreath were named by the American and National Leagues at a joint meeting yesterday to study and report the possibility of terminating the pension plan by November 1955. The owners charged their move was compelled by "the excessive demands by the player representatives and their attorney." No names were mentioned but undoubtedly they were referring to representatives Kiner and Reynolds and the players' attorney, J. Norman Lewis.

The meeting of Greenberg, Galbreath, Kiner and Reynolds which, incidentally, may include Lewis, may also provide the answer to what many baseball people believe is the crux of the entire dispute.

Just who is entitled to the vast receipts attained from the sale of the World Series and All-Star Game television and radio rights—and how much?

The players stoutly maintain the annual $1,260,000 plum belongs to them. They are supported in this belief by Lewis and former commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler.

A majority of the owners are equally certain the money is theirs. A small minority is willing to concede that the television and radio receipts should be divided among the club owners and players with 60 per cent going to the athletes after 15 per cent for expenses is taken out for the commissioner's office.

Both sides are looking ahead to 1956 when the current television-radio contract expires and a new contract, calling for an expected 200 per cent increase, probably will be negotiated. With that in mind, the players have been demanding benefit increases from $50 to $80 a month for five-year men and from $100 to $150 a month for 10-year men. They also want the age eligibility reduced from 50 to 45.

The owners, believing these demands to be excessive, have pointed out this would mean an added expenditure of $6,730,000 to past service cost (for retired ballplayers) and would double (to over a millica dollars a year) the current cost of carrying the plan. Rather than do that, they said, they believed it best to abandon the pension plan.

Every club owner, including Commissioner Ford Frick and League Presidents Warren Giles of the National and Will Harridge of the American insisted they wanted the pension plan to continue.

"I have made my position clear from beginning to end," Frick said. "I am thoroughly convinced this plan is an admirable plan. I will use every effort at my command to see that the plan is maintained."

"The big point is," said Greenberg, "that the owners desire to maintain the pension plan. The impression created by some that the owners are anxious to terminate the plan is incorrect. I'm equally sure there is no desire on the part of the players to terminate it.

"At the meeting, we're going to try to straighten out the differences, if there are any. "I'm sure we will come together. Nobody wants to deprive the players of larger pension benefits, provided there is money available for that purpose."

"I certainly hope there can be a way to work out all these difficulties," said Kiner, "but I still maintain the players have a right to legal counsel at any meetings that are set up where legislation does not prohibit it."

Yule Cheer and Tradition Found In Light-Wine Punch

ANCIENT TRADITION is bound up in the serving of Christmas punch. Light-wine punches are very festive.

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

Many families enjoy inviting friends to gather around the tree and share the traditional Christmas punch bowl with them. For those families and others who want to add this hospitable gesture to their holiday festivities, here are a few hot-punch recipes.

Hot Claret Cheerio
(About 3 quarts)

Four six - ounce cans frozen concentrate for lemonade, 2 4-5-quart bottles claret.

Combine frozen lemonade and claret in a large kettle and heat just to steaming. Do not boil. Pour into large punch bowl and serve.

Sparkling Claret-Lemon Punch
(About 2 quarts)

One 4-5-quart bottle claret or other red table wine, chilled, 1 6-ounce can frozen lemonade concentrate, ½ cup sugar, ½ teaspoon orange extract, 1 large bottle ginger ale, chilled, thin slices of orange and lemon for garnishing.

Combine wine, lemonade concentrate ,sugar and orange extract in a punch bowl; stir well to blend. Add ginger ale and a block of ice or a tray of ice cubes. Garnish with orange and lemon slices, if desired. Serve at once.

Lemonade Cookies

Three cups flour, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup butter (or margarine), 2 eggs, beaten, 1 teaspoon soda, 4 tablespoons frozen concentrate for lemonade, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Rub together the flour, sugar, and butter. Add beaten eggs and soda. Stir in the concentrate for lemonade. Add vanilla, if desired. Either form the dough into balls and flatten them with a fork — or chill the dough in refrigerator for at least 1 hour, if cookies are to be rolled. Bake on greased cookie sheets in 400 degree F. oven for 8-10 minutes, or until cookies are baked but not brown.

Excellent Christmas Toys Can Be Made At Home

Have you ever watched the small child at play? He likes to build, or to do things with his play materials. His is a world filled with activity. That's why children enjoy for years the play materials from which they can make something. But they soon tire of the toys that they only watch, such as mechanical toys.

There are many toys that are sturdy, safe, sanitary and attractive which can be made at home for the child from one to six. What's more, such toys can help him develop his creative powers and resourcefulness.

Blocks are excellent playthings which stimulate initiative and planning. The small child likes small, light blocks that he can handle easily. The older child likes larger, heavier and more complicated building materials. All wooden blocks should be well sandpapered to prevent splintering.

You can make small blocks from scrap lumber sawed into uniform sizes, sanded and waxed. The size and shape of blocks should be based on some uniform measurement so they fit together well in construction work. Some blocks could be cut 2x2x4 inches and then part of these cut in half through the center to give some 2-inch cubes. And some could be cut in half lengthwise giving pieces 1x2x4 inches. Still others might be cut diagonally. A broom handle cut in 4-inch lengths will combine easily with these blocks.

Older children enjoy large-sized hollow blocks. Excellent ones can be made by nailing the cover on wooden cigar, cheese or dried fruit boxes. Blocks of this kind can be used to build walls of play houses, make steps, imaginary furniture and such. A coat of bright colored enamel or lacquer increases their attractiveness.

Other toys which can be made include spool boards, pyramid block toys, a pounding board, spools for stringing, colored clothes pins and box, spool dolls, pull toys made from spools, doll cradle made from a basket, simple doll furniture as bed and cupboard, and stick horses.

Directions for making these and many other simple but sturdy toys are contained in circular 494, Homemade Toys for Children. Ask for a copy at the county extension office.

Christmas Goodies
Molasses Taffy

2 cups sorghum
1 cup sugar
1 T Vinegar
2 T Butter
1 tsp. soda

Cook sorghum, sugar and vinegar to the hard ball stage. Add butter and soda and cook until the mixture cracks. Pour in buttered pan and when cool enough to handle, pull. When creamy color, cut into pieces. Butter hands before starting to candy.

Butterscotch Taffy

1 C sugar
¼ C. sorghum
4 T butter
1 T vinegar
4 T boiling water inch salt
½ CP black walnuts.

Boil all ingredients but nuts until mixture cracks. Put nuts in bottom of buttered pan and pour taffy mixture over them. Let cool and break in desired pieces.

Crystallized Pop Corn

Put into a kettle one tablespoon of water and one cup of white sugar. Boil until nearly to candy. Pour in three quarts of corn popped nicely. Stir briskly until the candy is evenly distributed over the corn.

Set the kettle from the fire. Stir until it is cooled a little and each grain is separated and crystallized with sugar. Care should be taken not to have too hot a fire or the corn will scorch when crystallized. Nuts of any kind added are delicious.

Carmel Corn

Cover the bottom of the popper with pop corn (one layer thick). Use 1 rounded tablespoon of unsalted vegetable fat and ¼ cup granulated sugar. Stir the corn continuously until it begins to pop. Then put the cover on and let it pop. Salt after removing from fire.

Popcorn Balls

1 C sugar
½ C sorghum
1-3 C water
2 T butter
Pinch salt
½ T vinegar

Boil until it forms a hard ball in cold water. Pour mixture over two quarts of popped corn. Spread out on oiled paper until cool enough to handle; then form into balls.

Type of Baking Pan Makes The Difference

In many test kitchens where recipes are developed, aluminum pans are used because they stand up well under use. But recipes developed in aluminum give different results when baked in enamelware or glass. That's why you may need to change the baking time and temperature if you use glass or enamel baking dishes. Oven temperature may well be reduced 25 degrees below that given in the recipe and the baking time extended 5 minutes if glass or enamelware is used. In general, enamelware baking pans give the deepest brown and glass ranks next in rapid browning.

Potatoes Are A Good Food

Potatoes are one of the best energy for the money than any other vegetable. Potatoes are a valuable source of vitamin C and can be counted on for other vitamins and for important minerals. Potatoes are no more fattening than many other foods. No food is fattening until the total calories eaten or absorbed exceed the total needs of the body for calories.

The best potatoes are firm and clean, have shallow eyes, and no cuts, decay, or green spots. The green coloring on potatoes indicates that they were sunburned and will probably have a bitter taste.

The best way to get the most food value from potatoes is to boil them in their jackets. Baking keeps vitamins and minerals inside, too, but in baking potatoes they lose more Vitamin C than when boiled in their jackets.

If potatoes are peeled before boiling, use as little water as possible. The more water — the more nutrients lost. And, if you boil peeled potatoes, be sure to save the cooking water for gravy, soup, or sauce.

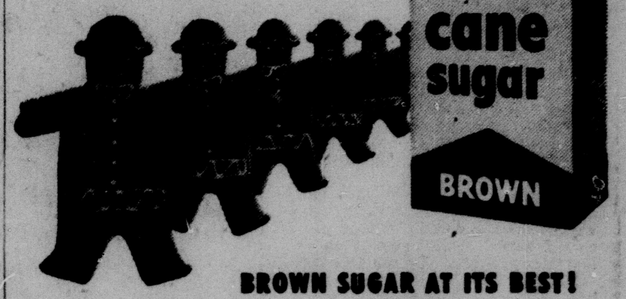

If you must peel potatoes before cooking, do this just before you cook them—don't let them soak. If you must, for some reason, peel them ahead of time, put them in salted water to keep them from turning dark.

Serve potatoes as soon after they are cooked as possible. The longer they stand exposed to the air the more Vitamin C they lose.

Take Time To Shop Wisely

No one can afford to buy clothes which will not be a pleasure to wear. But we sometimes find that we have done just that through failure to take the time to really try on a dress. "Trying on" doesn't mean just slipping into the garment and taking a glance as you stand before a mirror. Walk around, stretch, reach, and sit down. Check with the mirror from all angles. Here are some things to check for fit: Shoulder line and armholes; feel and set of sleeves; fit of waistline; skirt length and hem. Remember, depth of hems vary — the more circular the skirt, the narrower the hem should be. And don't overlook color — the most versatile dress in your wardrobe is the one that fits in with your basic color.

Here's Your Tree-Trim Supper

SALAD-DESSERT of gelatin and fruit for tree trimming.

EASY AND DELICIOUS Christmas Eve — slivered ham.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Christmas Eve plans are in the making. In your mind's eye you see the tree standing by the fireplace—tall, green and handsome. You want to have an especially good supper for the family before your tree - trimming fun starts. Something easy to prepare—but something enticing.

May we suggest a menu? Have nibblers for the first course — black and green olives, stuffed celery, maybe radishes. Go on to Ham Poulet over toast — utilizing a can of condensed cream of chicken soup for the sauce. Then, just to make the table really festive, serve a salad - dessert of gelatin and fruit cocktail molded in Christmas tree shapes.

Ham Poulet

Ingredients: ¼ pound cooked ham (about 1 cup when prepared), 2 tablespoons flour, ¾ cup milk, one 10¾ - ounce can condensed cream of chicken soup (undiluted), one 4 - ounce can sliced mushrooms (drained).

Method: Cut ham in thin slivers about 2 inches long. Measure flour into saucepan; slowly stir in milk so mixture will be smooth. Add soup, stirring well to blend. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly until mixture comes to a boil and is slightly thickened. Add mushrooms and slivered ham. Heat to simmering, stirring constantly. Serve over toast. Makes 4 servings. Recipe may be doubled or tripled.

Note: If desired, 1 tablespoon sherry may be added to Ham Poulet just before serving.

Christmas Tree Molds

Ingredients: 1 package lime-flavor gelatin, 1 cup very hot water, ¾ cup minus 2 tablespoons fruit juice, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1½ cups (No. 2 can) drained fruit cocktail, 1 cup cream (whipped and sweetened), maraschino cherries.

Method: Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Add fruit juice and lemon juice. Chill until slightly thickened. Fold in fruit. Turn into individual Christmas tree molds. Chill until firm; unmold. Make tree design on top of molds, using whipped cream in pastry bag. Serve with remaining whipped cream and maraschino cherries for dessert. Makes 8 servings.

Government Getting Out of Business Would Aid Small Taxpayers

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The withdrawal of the federal government from business would be a good thing for the small taxpayer as well as providing economy in government, Rep. Curtis (R-Neb.) said here yesterday.

A member of the House Ways and Means Committee, Curtis said "the more private business the wider is the distribution of the tax burden. We can't keep the private enterprise system running if taxes are prohibitive." Curtis spoke at a luncheon meeting of the executive forum of the Downtown YMCA.

Hopeful of reducing federal expenses, Curtis said some of the government's functions must be eliminated. "We must ask ourselves 'what is the government doing for us that we can do for ourselves or get along without?'"

Here's Recipe for Annual 'Christmas Star' Fruit Cake

"CHRISTMAS STAR" LIGHT FRUITCAKE is the special recipe for this traditional dish for Christmas, 1953.

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

Every year as Christmas draws near, Lucy M. Maltby of Corning, N. Y., dreams up a newa nd wonderful fruitcake recipe for our readers. She likes to bake them in round, heat-resistant glass cake dishes and give them to friends for Christmas.

For 1953, here's her "Christmas Star" Light Fruitcake recipe. It makes two round cakes 8¼ inches in diameter.

"Christmas Star"

Two and one-half cups sifted flour, 1¼ teaspoons double-acting baking powder, ¾ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon nutmeg, ½ teaspoon ground mace, 1 cup slivered, blanched almonds, ½ cup chopped pecans, 1 cup golden raisins, 3 cups prepared fruits for cake (1 pound fruit mix), ¾ cup shortening, 1¼ cups sugar, 4 eggs, ½ teaspoon orange extract, few drops almond extract, 6 tablespoons pineapple juice.

Sift flour, baking powder, salt and spices together. Dust nuts, raisins and fruit mix with about 1-3 cup of flour mixture. Cream shortening and sugar together until fluffy. Beat in eggs, one at a time. Stir in extracts. Add flour mixture alternately with pineapple juice. Stir in fruits and nuts.

Turn batter into two greased, heat-resistant, glass, round cake dishes, 8¼ inches in diameter. Cover with heat - resistant glass covers from two-quart casserole. Bake in very slow oven, 275 degrees F., from 2¼ to 2½ hours.

Bake and store these cakes with the covers on to keep the cakes moist. For long storage, seal on the covers with tape.

Decorate the tops of the cakes with red and green cherries and blanched almonds.

St. Louis May Be In Polio Test Area

ST. LOUIS (AP)—St. Louis and St. Louis County make up one of the areas being considered for a controlled nation-wide test of a new polio vaccine to start Feb. 8.

Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, revealed the St. Louis area's possible selection yesterday.

He conferred with foundation officials here on the coming March of Dimes campaign.

Up to 1 million second grade school pupils will be given the vaccine, named after its developer Dr. Jonas E. Salk, in an effort to determine its effectiveness. Positive results won't be known until 1955.

Dr. Albert Englebrach of Dallas, Tex., regional medical consultant for the foundation, is scheduled to meet with state health officials Friday to determine which Missouri counties will be selected for the test.

Beavers Build Dam Again; It's Dynamite

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — County workmen dug a new channel to straighten Bee Creek.

By the next morning beavers had built a dam across it, forcing the stream back into the old channel.

A few sticks of dynamite removed the dam, but not for long. Within a week the beavers had built a new one with the same result.

More dynamite. Three weeks later, a new and stronger dam.

More dynamite — a big charge this time. The blast took away not only the dam, but part of the bank on each side as well.

That did it—the commissioners hope.

GE Announces Tough Policy Towards Reds

NEW YORK (AP)—General Electric Co. announced today it will immediately fire all admitted Communists, spies and saboteurs and suspend employes who refused to testify under oath before "a competent government authority" on such matters.

In a formal policy statement, the company termed the present government security program for defense plants "good" but "not fully adequate in the present condition of world affairs."

The company called upon the government to set up an independent security agency which would give suspended employes a chance to be cleared and reinstated.

The Senate Permanent Investigating subcommittee, headed by Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis), recently has been looking into alleged Communist infiltration of defense plants, including some operated by General Electric.

The company noted "with great concern the public hearings of congressional committees in which some General Electric employes, though few in number, have refused to answer questions concerning espionage, sabotage, or their Communist affiliations."

The company operates 131 plants, employing 230,000 workers. Its defense work is concentrated in 14 major plants, employing about 69,000 workers.

The company said about eight per cent of the 69,000 defense workers are represented by the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America. That union was expelled four years ago from the CIO on the grounds that it was Communist-dominated.

America spends less than $500,000 a year on research on the blinding eye diseases says the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness.

FORGET THE CALENDAR . . . YOU CAN MAKE THE FINEST BERRY JAMS Right Now!

WITHOUT COOKING . . . AND FOR LESS THAN 15c A GLASS — How? With frozen berries and the exclusive M.C.P. Jam and Jelly PECTIN uncooked jam recipes that eliminate the usual cooking and boiling and thus retain ALL natural berry flavor and color. And economical? The M.C.P. recipe (below) makes 13 (½ lb.) glasses for less than 15c a glass. Compare this with the cost (and quality) of "store" jam!

Uncooked Berry Jam Recipe*
(Using Frozen Strawberries or Red Raspberries)
3 – 16 oz., or 4 – 12 oz., or 5 – 10 oz. packages

1. Partially thaw the frozen berries and put them in a 2 or 4 quart kettle. Using a potato masher, crush berries thoroughly to obtain enough liquid to dissolve the pectin. Place kettle over slow fire and warm to 100°F. (or temperature you'd use for baby's milk). No hotter, please! Remove from fire.
2. Sift 1 package (3½-oz.) M.C.P. Jam and Jelly Pectin into thawed berries, stirring vigorously. Set aside for at least 20 minutes, stirring occasionally to assure that pectin is fully dissolved.
3. Stir in 1 cup light corn syrup, and stir well.
4. Now, stir in 6 level cups beet or cane sugar (previously and accurately measured). Mix well.
5. With Red Raspberries the jam is ready to eat when sugar is dissolved. With Strawberries, add ¼ cup lemon juice after sugar is dissolved; mix well. Makes 5 full pints or 13 (½ lb.) glasses.

NOTE: If jam is to be kept for a time, put in pint jars or paper cartons, well covered (no paraffin needed), and chill for 24 hours in deep freeze, or freezing or ice cube compartment of refrigerator. Then, store as you would milk, and use as desired. Never store these jams on pantry shelf. They will not keep without refrigeration.

CUT OUT AND KEEP THIS RECIPE!
(It's not in the folder in the M.C.P. Pectin package. Or, write Mutual Citrus Products Co., Anaheim, California, for complete uncooked jam recipe folder.)

*Copr. 1953 M.C.P. Co.

THIS CREAMY FRENCH DRESSING WILL NOT SEPARATE!

PECTIN DOES IT! That is, M.C.P. PECTIN. No other will do the trick! Seems strange to use pectin this way . . . but it's a plus value you get with M.C.P. JAM AND JELLY PECTIN. Thousands have made M.C.P. French Dressing and called it "wonderful." The non-separating feature particularly appeals, also, the great economy. If you'd like this fine recipe, write to the M.C.P. Laff-A-Lot Club Meets, Has Election

By Mrs. Eva Shores

FORTUNA — Mrs. Woodrow Newkirk was hostess on Thursday to the Laff-A-Lot club with 19 members and 4 visitors present. During the business meeting the following officers were elected: president, Mrs. Lloyd Dornan; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. W. L. Rimel. Names were drawn for their Christmas paty to be held on December 16th at the home of Mrs. Lloyd Dornan.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Hutchison entertained Sunday the following guests at dinner in honor of the birthday anniversary of their daughter Sally: Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Drake and daughter, Connie, Tipton, and Mr. and Mrs. Russell Gates and son, Keith, Versailles.

Large Baked Ham Is Dish To Climax Festive Season

GLAZED HAM FOR CHRISTMAS BUFFET is one way to serve a hearty, main-dish meal and have leftover feasts.

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

A large, handsome baked ham is almost as much a part of Christmas as the Christmas tree. So we asked Beth Bailey McLean of Chicago, meat cookery expert, how to select and cook a holiday ham.

When selecting your holiday ham, she advises, plan ample servings with leftovers for snack-time feasting. If the ham is fully cooked, bone - in, plan on 1-3 pound per serving. When buying a cooked ,boneless ham, plan on ¼ pound per person.

All cured pork, whether cooked or uncooked, should be stored in the refrigerator. Use whole, fully cooked hams within seven days. You can serve these fully cooked hams as purchased, or heated, if preferred. For flavorful baked ham, heat fully cooked ham uncovered in a slow oven (325 degrees F.) about 10 minutes to the pound, to an internal temperature of 130 degrees F.

For a specially festive note, score and glaze the ham. To score, remove all the skin and cut the fat ¼-inch deep into uniform diamonds about two inches from point to point. Make your favorite glaze and spread evenly over the scored, hot, baked ham. You may decorate the ham with maraschino cherries. Use a bit of toothpick to hold a cherry in the center of each diamond.

After the holiday, use ham in encore dishes that are sure to please the family. Here is one that is just right for after-holiday suppers.

Ham a la King
(4 servings)

One cup diced, cooked ham, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 cup milk, salt and pepper, ½ cup cooked, button mushrooms, 2 tablespoons chopped pimiento, ¼ cup sliced ripe olives, 1 egg yolk, patty shells or toast.

Make a white sauce of the butter, flour, milk and seasoning. Add mushrooms, pimiento, olives and egg yolk. Heat thoroughly. One-fourth cup shredded cheese may be added.

Hal Boyle's Column—

Heroes Are Important to You, But You Soon Outgrow Them

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—A hero is as necessary to a human being as oxygen.

Today, a man is known not so much by the company he keeps as by the heroes he holds.

There is a two-way relationship between any man and his hero. The hero helps him, and the man through belief adds a lustre to the hero's fame.

When you are young, almost any old hero will do. But as you grow older, you choose your heroes more carefully. Usually, they are people who have risen above problems that are a kind of Mt. Everest in your own life.

The nice thing about heroes is they never outgrow you. You outgrow and discard them.

For example, if you like football, you start with Frank Merriwell and his triumphs at Yale and go on to Coach Frank Leahy and his present problems at Notre Dame. Frank Merriwell always won the game, but to make a first down is Frank Leahy's only announced goal. Our goals, like our heroes, grow smaller as we grow older.

Every man has to have a military hero. My first one was Alexander the Great who most people think died from trying to drink a gallon of wine in his early 30s while despairing there were more worlds for him to conquer. I admired him not for his despair or his victories but because I had never met a man in his 30s who could afford a gallon of wine.

When I read later that Alexander the Great had died of brain fever, I lost interest in him. He became too remote.

It was the same way with Stonewall Jackson. He died at 39. After my 40th birthday, even reading of Stonewall Jackson disturbed me. I couldn't forgive him his youth, his early death with a beard. He made me feel too old.

At present, I have only three real military heroes. They are Robert E. Lee, Gen. Omar Nelson Bradley and Ernie Pyle. Of the three, I think Gen. Bradley and Ernie Pyle have survived the most rugged test. It is hard for a man to be a hero in his lifetime.

But as we grow older, I suppose that is the kind of heroes we look for — those who have helped us by their example in our lifetime. This is why an old man admires from the vantage point of his years the father whom he as a boy took for granted. Our heroes grow closer to us as we mature, because as we grow older we pick heroes closer to our needs.

A man needs many heroes, one for every mood.

But he should have a human hero, one with human faults, one not so high that the fog of his perfection obscures him. A hero without faults is not a hero. He is unbelievable.

Some heroes stay with you all your life, changeless and changeful as the climate. I suppose if I had to name the heroes who have worn best with me, they would be the literary heroes of my youth — William Shakespeare, Thomas Hardy and emily Dickinson. Yet one must also have an unknown hero. To me, it is the person who wrote the lines, that of all lines written, I would most like to have my name beneath.

They are the lines, spoken on some night of splendor by every child who speaks the English tongue and looks up at a sky and says:

"Starlight, star bright, first star I have seen tonight. I wish I may, I wish I might have this wish I wish this night."

You have to have a hero to be a human being — but it's more comfortable to have a human hero. Then you can even admire the flashbacks on his clay feet.

Syracuse School Has Open House

By Mrs. B. A. Bridges

SYRACUSE — Open House was held at the Syracuse School last Monday evening. There were approximately 225 persons present. After the Tipton High School band played several numbers, the parents visited the different class rooms in the school, where the teachers told about the work the students had been doing in classes this year.

While the parents were in the classrooms, the pupils were entertained by the magic tricks performed by Harland Stretz, who is an English teacher in the Tipton High School.

At the close of the evening refreshments were served.

Dr. and Mrs. F. I. Lawrence of Sedalia visited Tuesday evening with Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Keevil.

Mrs. J. C. Doderstrom and Susan left Thursday for her home in Prescott, Ariz., after spending four weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Bridges.

Mrs. Viola Mummert has returned home from a three-weeks visit with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Ferguson, California, Mo., Mr. and Mrs. Ed Mummert, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Wilson and son of Tipton; Mrs. Mary Ferguson, Mr. and Mrs. Artie Ferguson, and Mr. and Mrs. Mummert's son, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Mummert of Fortuna.

Mr .and Mrs. Henderson Taylor had as their weekend guests Mrs. Taylor's two grandsons, Bob and Bill White of Merriam, Kan., the parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. White and two small sons, Rusty and Kenneth. Taylor accompanied them home, staying until Wednesday when Mr. Taylor went to Kansas.

Bite Is Put On Him

OMAHA (AP) — Here's another version of the story of the gent who got bit by his own teeth. An Omahan, with the courtesy born of 70 years' experience, stepped aside to let a secretary pass through the office's swinging door. It swung back and nailed him on the chest. He let out an "ouch" as he extracted his choppers from a breast pocket. They had bitten him.

Ike Advisers See Error In Appeasement of McCarthy

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—White House advisers, previously split as to whether the President should crack back at Senator McCarthy, are now less divided. The McCarthy strategy of swamping the White House with telegrams, plus his charge that the White House was concealing Western Union figures, plus earlier McCarthy criticism, has made even General "Slick" Persons realize that Ike can't appease McCarthy.

General Persons, with Vice President Nixon, has been the most persuasive of the Ike advisers who believe the President must get along with McCarthy, not oppose him.

But now it's the belief of almost everyone who tries to counsel an idealistic but politically inexperienced President that the Senator from Wisconsin has used the Eisenhower administration to build himself a rabid following which can't be dissipated overnight. In effect, the administration has supplied the steppingstones by which the man who now defies it has risen to power.

Here are some of the steppingstones the administration has inadvertently handed its chief Republican critic:

Steppingstone No. 1—Carbon copies of all Eisenhower administration investigations are automatically given McCarthy. That was how he knew the Army was probing the Signal Corps at Fort Monmouth, N. J. The Army had been working on this for months, and after McCarthy obtained corpies of Army reports, it was a simple matter for him to call witnesses, usurp the headlines.

Steppingstone No. 2 — Attorney General Brownell whitewashed the Senate investigating committee's report on McCarthy; also let the statute of limitations expire on the Senate probe of the Maryland election and McCarthy's part in it. A Senate committee had submitted a unanimous report, including amazing photostats of McCarthy's concealed financial operations. Yet Brownell announced that the matter was being dropped.

Steppingstone No. 3—The administration appointed two McCarthy men to the Federal Communications Commission. This is one reason the big radio and TV networks have leaned over backward to give McCarthy free time. The White House even appointed to the FCC, Robert E. Lee, the McCarthy henchman who, according to a Senate report, handled some of the money in the Maryland election. Lee's extremely limited knowledge of radio or TV came as a moderator for the McCarthy-Hunt TV program, "Facts Forum."

Steppingstone No. 4—The administration gave McCarthy's chief financial angel, H. L. Hunt, and other financial backers, a tax reduction on contributions to his TV program, "Facts Forum." In other words, the administration which has suffered from McCarthy's attacks helped build him up by ruling that those who finance McCarthy's TV program get a tax deduction of 20 per cent for individuals and 5 per cent for corporations on the amounts they contribute.

McCarthy Network

This TV program gives significant insight into the McCarthy propaganda network. If the Republican party tried to get away with the same tax deductions it has given McCarthy's followers, it would be laughed out of court. However, "Facts Forum," though touted as educational, is actually an effective propaganda vehicle for the philosophy of America firsters, isolationists and the fascist fringe.

On its advisory committee are Gen. Robert E. Wood, former head of the America First Committee, which vigorously opposed war with Hitler; also Gen. Hanford McNider, an active leader in the same group.

Yet President Eisenhower's policies are the exact opposite. He commanded the chief offensive against Hitler, later advocated international cooperation as head of NATO in Paris.

A typical "Facts Forum" lecturer is Allan Zoll, whose American Patriots organization was put on the Attorney General's list of subversive and Fascist. Among the books and literature which "Facts Forum' urges TV viewers to buy are those written by Merwyn K. Hart, who Justice Jackson described as "well known for his pro-Fascist leanings."

President Eisenhower, of course, has taken exactly the opposite stand from these McCarthy followers, has made public pleas for tolerance and understanding. Yet his Treasury Department gives tax benefits to an organization fighting his policies under the guise of education.

"Facts Forum" urges TV viewers and radio listeners to participate in the "Facts Forum Book Plan," of which the most widely promoted book is McCarthy's "The Fight for America." This contains a diatribe against Eisenhower's close friend, Gen. George Marshall, now in Stockholm receiving the Nobel Peace Prize; also accuses such publications as The Christian Science Monitor, Time and Life Magazines, Washington Post, St. Louis Post-Dispatch, Portland Oregonian and The Milwaukee Journal of following the Communist line.

McCarthy's Angel

"Facts Forum" angel, Texas oil millionaire H. L. Hunt, is also in a favored tax position, due to the 27½ per cent oil depletion allowance. Hunt is a man of rather extreme ideas as to who is or is not a Communist.

Merry-Go-Round

Secretary of Agriculture Benson's plan to get rid of American farm surpluses in Europe has been given a setback by little Denmark. The Danes flatly turned down an offer of four to six million dollars worth of farm surpluses. They grow a lot themselves. . . . President Quirino had to be talked out of issuing a blast at the United States after losing the Philippine elections. He had a statement all drawn up, charging American interference, but his advisers persuaded him to tear it up. (Quirino is right. His rival, President-elect Magsaysay, received contributions from several big American firms.)

Ike Takes Warning From Mistakes That Are History

By Bruce Biossat

In Prime Minister Churchill's final volume of war memoirs, "Triumph and Tragedy," he voices his amazement that the late President Roosevelt did not better prepare his vice president, Harry Truman, for possible succession to the grave responsibilities of the White House.

There are encouraging evidences that President Eisenhower is keenly aware of the necessity for avoiding that mistake with Vice Prosident Nixon.

In 1945, from Jan. 20, his fourth inaugural, to April 12, his death, Mr. Roosevelt was engaged in critical war affairs. We were delivering the final blows to Germany, making ready to shift the full weight of our mighty war machine to the Pacific, and laying the groundwork for a new experiment in international relations, the United Nations.

But what was Mr. Truman, his heir apparent, doing at this time? He was playing cards with his Senate cronies, and presiding quietly over the Senate. At a press conference in Chicago less than a month before he assumed the presidency, Mr. Truman complained that he did not have enough to do.

No wonder Mr. Truman urged everyone to pray for him when Mr. Roosevelt died. Truly, the roof had fallen in on him. Says Churchill of that problem:

"It seemed to me extraordinary . . . that Roosevelt had not made his deputy and potential successor thoroughly acquainted with the whole story and brought him into the decisions which were being taken. This proved of grave disadvantage to our affairs."

In the circumstances, it is wholly understandable that Mr. Truman committed errors. He had to learn his job from scratch under the greatest of pressures. Mistakes like his evident misjudgments in the White case, it must be remember, came only eight to ten months after he became President.

(His stature today would probably be enhanced if he still humbly acknowledged the limitations he felt then. But he has in later years taken to asserting cocksurely that all his presidential decisions—from the start—were wise and well-informed.)

The value of all this history, whether as recited by Sir Winston or as recently resurrected by the Republicans, is in its warning. And, hopefully, that appears to have registered with Mr. Eisenhower.

Almost from the beginning he has brought Nixon into the high councils of government, keeping him thoroughly versed on all top policy and how it is made. Nixon sits with the National Security Council. He is crucially involved in the difficult work of explaining administration aims to Congress and tempering senatorial attitudes when they are hostile.

His current trip to the Far East is much more than a ceremonial excursion. Nixon, at such places as Tokyo, has been a true policy spokesman for Mr. Eisenhower. He is explaining wherever he goes. And he is also learning—studying problems and people, making acquaintances, building a background in a vital and too-little understood area of American policy.

All this gives rise to hope that we may, after all, gain something from looking at history, even though, as in the White case, the effort becomes badly ensnarled in politics.

The World Today—
West Grabs Psychological Flag

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—Here at the tail end of 1953 the West grabbed and ran with the psychological flag which the Russians had seized early in the year and then dropped.

The West threw Moscow on the defensive twice within 24 hours with its two invitations: to a foreign ministers' meeting Jan. 4 in Berlin, and to private talks on pooling atomic materials for peace.

Russian refusal to attend the Berlin meeting would be pretty plain admission it was unwilling to take even that small step toward a chance for peace, even though no one expects much of the meeting.

Russia will look bad, too, if it says "no" to President Eisenhower's proposal that the atomic powers sit down and talk of pooling some of their atomic materials.

When the Eisenhower administration took over last January this country had been at war with the Communists for more than 2½ years in Korea. The mood against Russia was tough.

The new administration expressed no softness. Neither did Stalin, sitting halfway around the world, still stolid, stubborn, apparently still willing to keep pushing, even if it meant fighting, as it did in Korea.

Stalin died in March. His successor, Malenkov, switched tactics at once. He talked peace. He had much to gain, nothing to lose by the switch.

If this country didn't take his bait and start yielding ground, he might drive a wedge between the United States and its European friends. They wanted peace. Being nearer Russia, they were nearer destruction if war began.

Malenkov had some effect. When this country didn't bite, some Europeans criticized the United States as being too rigid. The French, who had long delayed joining a single European army in defense against Russia, delayed some more.

They feared seeing their old enemy, Germany, rearmed. If there was a single European army, German troops would be in it.

If there was a chance for peace, the European army would not be needed. The Russians even dangled the idea of a nonaggression pact before the French in an attempt to weaken their link with this country.

The Russians had other fish to fry with their peace talk too. In West Germany, for example, where Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, a solid ally of the West, was up for re-election or defeat in September.

If the Russians could persuade the West Germans that tagging along with Moscow meant peace but that re-electing Adenauer might drag them into war, Adenauer might be thrown out.

Eisenhower was unimpressed by Malenkov. If the Russians meant peace, he said in April, they could prove it by deeds. There were no deeds. But Malenkov had an effect even on Sir Winston Churchill, never starry-eyed.

Churchill said maybe some good might come of a meeting between him, Eisenhower, the French Premier and Malenkov. He proposed it. Eisenhower rejected it. Summer came, and several things happened.

Workers in Russian-held East Germany rioted, showing their feeling about Moscow. That was Moscow's first big psychological setback in 1953.

The Communists agreed to a truce in Korea, which might have seemed evidence for Eisenhower of Moscow's good intentions. But the Communists wiped out that impression fast by blocking the peace talks.

Eisenhower helped pull the West Germans closer to the side of the West by pouring in food for the East Germans, who couldn't get enough from the Russians. In September Adenauer was re-elected.

After that the Russian murmurings about peace began to dwindle. Pretty soon Moscow under Malenkov looked just as it did under Stalin: sullen, stolid, capable of saying nothing but "no".

For in the meantime, starting in July, the West had begun an exchange of notes with Moscow, suggesting a Big Four foreign ministers' meeting in Berlin. The notes went back and forth. No progress.

Then Eisenhower, Churchill and the French Premier, Laniel, announced they'd meet in Bermuda. The Russians said they'd consider a foreign ministers' meeting.

Out of the Bermuda meeting came the invitation to the ministers' meeting in Berlin and a few hours later Eisenhower proposed pooling atomic materials.

Alarm Is Bypassed

STEVENS POINT, Wis. (AP)—After two burglaries, management of the Copps Co. rural grocery store, wired all doors and windows with a new alarm system. In a third burglary nearly $4,000 was stolen. The alarm system was bypassed when the thieves chopped a hole in the roof and lowered themselves into the store.

THE ANGELS FELL

XXVIII

WE found Martha asleep on Joey's bed. Except for shoes she was fully dressed. Her eyes were haggard, her wide mouth slack.

With possessive fierceness she swooped down on Joey. Holding him, she announced that he was going right home with her. He didn't object because staying with her meant a lot of attention and presents.

"But only for a day or two," I said. "He'll live here with me as soon as I straighten myself out."

She put on her shoes and they left.

I tried to decide whether to make breakfast or flop down on the bed. Upstairs I heard the Gallaghers bickering. Charlotte was insisting that Ted start the furnace before he left for work and Ted declared that the weather was turning warm. The basement apartment was freezing.

Suddenly Martha was back. She closed the door and leaned against it in fatigue, her eyes partly closed behind cigarette smoke.

She said: "I had to get Joey out of here before I told you. I'll break it to him when he's in my house."

"Dina?" I said.

"She's dead, Paul."

Upstairs Grace shrieked: "Mummy, Joey is outside!" A door slammed. Then I heard Grace's voice outside and Charlotte's too.

"So they found her body," I said woodenly.

"It wasn't like that, Paul. She was alive until last night. She was shot in a Raventon street. The Raventon police want to see you. They've been phoning."

"Do they know who did it?"

"No."

I sat down. I didn't feel as if I would ever again be able to get to my feet.

"I'll tell Joey," she said.

"Thanks, Martha."

• • •

I DIDN'T have to see her; there was no question of her identity. But I asked to have a last look at her before they cut her up in the autopsy.

Ben Helm was in the morgue with me, and a detective-sergeant named Greene.

It was a mistake to have come here. There was no mortician to make her presentable, and the dead aren't pretty. Dina no longer had a doll face.

Ben Helm bent over the table, gingerly putting fingers on the back of her head. "What about the bruise?" he asked.

"Doc Gold says a bad concussion," the sergeant said.

"How recent?"

"Not last night, anyway, Doc Gold says. Could've been Thursday when Larkin was shot, but anything I ask him he says wait till the autopsy."

"Her clothes looked as if they'd been slept in for days," Helm told me. "She could have been unconscious part of the time from that concussion. She was shot on Kegler street."

"Between Cleveland and Roosevelt," the sergeant said. "Know anybody there?"

I shook my head.

The sergeant left us on the street, and Helm and I walked to the Municipal Building where I had left my car. I knew what was on the sleuth's mind. The question came about the way I expected it.

"What time," he asked, "did Hannah Rahn reach your place last night?"

"If you know she was there, you must have spoken to her this morning."

"The Kingston police phoned you at 1:20. How long before that did she arrive?"

"Quite a while."

He looked sideways at me as we walked, his gaze incisive for those mild brown eyes. "Don't you get tired of trying to protect every woman you know?"

"Is this the way you watch out for a client's interest?"

"Clients are always complaining about me." Helm paused to knock out his pipe against his heel. "She left me soon after 11. She could have gone to Raventon before 12."

I said: "All right, she came to my apartment at 1:10."

This time he didn't say uh-huh. We turned into the Municipal Building in which the county also had its offices. We walked up a flight of stairs and entered an outer office. All three desks in it were occupied.

A decorative redhead sat at one desk with a monitor switchboard on her right and a typewriter on her left. At the second desk Russ Handy was writing on white paper with a fountain pen. His wide-spaced eyes tilted up to us. He had no word for us, not even a nod. George Maudson, speaking into a phone, sprawled behind the third desk.

• • •

HELM accompanied me through a glass door. John Randolph sat behind an imposing oak desk. He didn't look secure there, didn't look happy. He had got the job, but he also had the headaches that went with it.

"I was glad to hear it was all a mistake about your son," he said without warmth. "There are several questions I'd like to ask you."

I crossed the office and put my hands flat on his desk. "Didn't you hear from Chief Watrous?"

"Certainly."

"Then you know that he left me at my house at 11:30 last night. You know there was a police shadow outside my house and that I didn't leave in my car then, and even if I had I couldn't have made the 30 miles to Raventon in 20 minutes.

"There's no doubt about it." Randolph brought up a sickly reassuring smile. "And if you didn't shoot Mrs. Larkin, obviously you didn't shoot Mr Larkin either because the identical gun was used in both murders."

Odds and Ends By News Staff

THE YOUNG COUPLE was going to the symphony concert and had arranged for friends to keep their baby that evening. The friends lived just two or three blocks from Smith-Cotton and it seemed like such a simple thing to get over there for the concert, but it certainly wasn't simple. In fact, the couple had to take a taxi.

In the first place, just about the time they reached the school, the young man found he had forgotten his tickets and they had to go back home after them. That was six or seven blocks away. They got the tickets and started back and when they were almost to the school again, at least within a couple of blocks, the girl stepped on a stick and tore her hose and they had to go back home again so she could change. By that time it was late, they couldn't possible make it back to the school in time for the concert and, anyway, after all that they were pretty well worn out, so they just took a taxi.—H.L.

THE CIVIC CLUB was all set for the meeting and found they had no program. It seemed as though it happened like this, the program chairman and the president had a very nice program planned but they just forgot to tell the person who was to put on the program anything about it. When the day of the meeting arrived, the man on the program didn't.—H. L.

'Come Over for Holiday Brunch'

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

A holiday brunch is such fun. You set the hour that suits you—sometime between 11 and 1. Folks drop over to exchange holiday news, relax over good food and hot coffee, and bask in warm family cheer.

Have a big pitcher of freshly squeezed orange juice ready for a pick-up when guests arrive. Or if you're in the mood to offer a surprise, try this brand-new recipe for Spiced Cranberry Tomato Cocktail.

For the main course, we recommend that most accommodating of brunch dishes — baked eggs. But these are baked eggs with a difference because they're flavored with tarragon. Prepare the eggs in individual baking dishes and they'll be simple to serve.

Top the eggs with slices of crisp bacon. Easy way to prepare a pound of bacon at a time is by this method. Allow the bacon to stand at room temperature so you can separate the slices. Then spread the slices out on a rack in a shallow pan. Bake in a hot (400 F) oven about 10 minutes or until well browned. You won't have to turn the bacon and it will be pleasantly crisp. Drain on brown paper or paper towels and keep hot while you turn the oven down to 325F for the baked eggs.

Hot biscuits are a must with this brunch, and may be prepared from a mix. If you want to save time, "drop" the biscuits, according to the directions on the package, instead of rolling them out. We like to serve the first rounds of biscuits with squares of butter; then split the last round and spread with butter and a mixture of honey and chopped pecans. Good!

For a refreshing last course, make an attractive arrangement of crunchy apples, juicy pears, tangerines, oranges and grapes; then add persimmons and pomegranates, if they're available, just because they look exotic and are fun!

BAKED EGGS are perfect for that holiday brunch.

Spiced Cranberry Tomato Cocktail

Ingredients: Fresh lemon juice, confectioners' sugar, 3 cups tomato juice, 1 cup cranberry juice, 1-inch piece stick cinnamon, 3 whole cloves, ¼ teaspoon salt, crushed ice.

Method: Dip edges of six 6-ounce glasses in lemon juice, then in confectioners' sugar. Place in refrigerator for 20 to 30 minutes or longer, until well chilled. Combine tomato and cranberry juices, cinnamon, cloves and salt. Chill in refrigerator for 20 to 30 minutes or more. Remove spices. Shake well with cracked ice and strain into chilled glasses. Makes 6 servings.

Herbed Baked Eggs

Ingredients: 4 tablespoons butter or margarine, 3 tablespoons fine dry bread crumbs, ¾ teaspoon crumbled whole tarragon, 12 eggs, 6 tablespoons heavy cream, 6 tablespoons grated cheddar cheese, paprika.

Method: Grease 6 individual pie plates or shirred egg dishes generously with 2 tablespoons butter. Combine crumbs and tarragon. Sprinkle inside of dishes with crumb mixture. Break two eggs into each dish, being careful not to break yolks. Pour 1 tablespoon cream over eggs; sprinkle with cheese and paprika. Dot with 2 tablespoons butter. Bake in slow (325 F) oven about 15 minutes or until eggs are of desired doneness. Makes 6 servings.

Witton Urges More Highway Funds In State

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Rex M. Whitton, chief engineer of the Missouri Highway Department, has urged new revenue increases to provide funds to improve the state's obsolete highway system.

Whitton said Missourians have "struggled a long time on their reputation as having a state with the lowest gasoline taxes in the nation."

"As a result," he said, "our state progress actually has been and is being retarded because our highways have or are becoming obsolete. Motor vehicles have increased in number, size, weight and speed far beyond the limits of construction and modernization steps to meet such an increase."

Whitton made his remarks last night at the semi-annual meeting of the board of governors of the Automobile Club of Missouri.

He said the State Highway Commission "has done all in its power to meet the demand with available funds. But the demands of modern-day traffic could not be met on tax structure of the 1920s."

Whitton noted legislative action increasing gasoline and diesel fuel taxes and bus and truck license fees which followed the commission's report on a 10-year construction program.

During the meeting, Matt F. Morse, club president, awarded the St. Louis Globe-Democrat a plaque in recognition of the "outstanding contribution" the newspaper's safety campaign has made toward the prevention of auto accidents. E. Lansing Ray, publisher of the newspaper, accepted the award.
